CITY ENDORSEMENT — This is the architect's sketch of the 55 unit apartment building which the Henry Doelger Corp. plans to build on Southgate near the Westlake Library. City councilmen approved the plans Monday night. About 55 parking units will be installed under the apartment building and additional parking spaces for common use will be created behind the library.

Westlake Apt. Gets City OK

Henry Doelger Corp's. proposal for a 55-unit apartment in Westlake won a unanimous approval Monday night by the Daly City city council.

At least 40 residents turned out to protest. An ordinance was approved to rezone property south and west of the Westlake Library and between Southgate avenue and Fairlawn court for the purpose of building the apartment.

The property will be rezoned from R-1 single family residential, Unclassified and Commercial to R-3 multiple residential.

Fifty-five parking units will be installed underground of the apartment. The building, situated some 80 feet from Fairlawn court and bordering Southgate, will have a height limit of 41 feet with average height of less than 30 feet.

No Spot Zoning

Several residents protested that Doelger Corp. had agreed upon selling homes along Maddux and Fairlawn court, that the area near the library would remain single-family residential.

City Attorney Paul Hupf stated that since the area is zoned in three categories, apartment rezoning is not unreasonable for the area. He said this rezoning would not be "spot" zoning, since apartments, commercial buildings and residential buildings surround the area.

The proposed apartment will be 145 x 95 feet in area. About 35 parking spaces will be created in back of the library for common use.

Thomas Gallen, attorney representing the Doelger Corp., said since the east side of the proposed apartment is zoned commercial and multiple residential, Doelger is asking for use where it is adapted—for non-residential use.

Gallen also pointed out that the majority of the Planning Commission did not vote against the apartment project.

There is no ingress or egress from the apartment onto Fairlawn court, he said.

Mrs. John Gallagher, Fairlawn court resident, denied several of Gallen's statements.

O. Tice, of Fairlawn court, stated that the Fairlawn court residents are having "an inharmonious influence pushed on us by the instigation of R-3."

The "Swiss Alps"

Making a final stand against the issue were Edward D. Reynolds, 954 Maddux; Mrs. G. Merlini, 74 Bayle, and Vincent Cauci, 836 Wildwood, Colma.

Cauci said the apartment would be like creating a "Swiss Alps in the middle of Southgate."

Kenneth Edwards, union business trades representative, said the construction would create more jobs for workers, but that he was opposed to the construction since it would create an additional hazard for children who now use the area for a playground.

Henry Doelger Corp. stated that "The council has decided that the construction of new apartments on Southgate will not be detrimental to adjacent property. It is good and proper planning to stop the extension of the commercial area on that street and allow the apartment buffer between the single family residences and the stores.

"Progress may mean growing pains for a few, but that is no reason to penalize the growth of the entire community."

Contractors Race 'Pa Time' In Completion Of Schools

The Jefferson High School district board of trustees heard two reports on district construction projects Monday night — one appearing favorable and the other no so favorable.

Taking the bad news first, the board heard a report from general contractor James Roberts on the progress or "lack of progress' of the Jefferson project.

Roberts told the board and a sparse audience that the opening of the classrooms would be "tight," but that he would do everything within his power to expedite the project.

Roberts, whose schedule was set back five weeks by the construction strike, gave answers on three of five major completion problems which were presented to him.

The principal problem seems to be that of cleaning and filling up the areas between the buildings so they don't impede the traffic of the students to-and-from their various classes.

Roberts said that the areas around the gymnasium and the cafeteria definitely will be cleared up and leveled by the time school opens on September 11.

On the main problem of completing two of the shop buildings, Roberts said, "It will be nip and tuck, but I sincerely think that we will have these two buildings ready."

He asserted that the construction part would definitely be completed, but that the painting and mechanical work to the interior of the building posed the main problem. He said the painting contractor has promised to work the weekend prior to the opening of school to complete the inside.

The two areas which Roberts couldn't be sure on were the semi-circle driveway in front of the school and the completion of the badly-needed auto shop.

One end of the loop, where the big school buses come in to drop off the students, is completely blocked up and may not be cleared by the time school opens. Roberts said that he would do his best to elleviate the congestion by September 11, but could promise nothing.

The auto shop was contracted to be finished by October 1, but to date the building has not been touched.

Superintendent Edward Morgan said the auto shop poses a problem in that the students who signed up for advanced auto shop at Jeff will not be able to engage in any mechanical lab work until the building is completed.

The board requested that Roberts begin the re-conditioning of the building immediately. The contractor agreed and said he would have a revised calendar at the next scheduled meeting, Tuesday, September 11.

On the other side of town, the outlook was a little more optimistic. Westmoor's contractor, Martinelli Construction, reported that the project of eight classrooms, five science labs, two industrial art classrooms and one mechanical drawing room is 97 per cent complete.

Matrinelli feels that the project will be completed by September 11. Westmoor principal Glenn South has an alternate plan in case the project isn't 100 per cent completed.

In other business, the board approved the second increment to the Oceana master plan as authorized by architect Mario Ciampi.

They will begin working on plans and specifications on the second increment which will be ready by 1964. The new increment will increase the school's capacity from 922 students to 1,587.

Ciampi was also instructed to begin detailed plans for a third increment to the master plan, which will increase Oceana to 2,000-plus by 1967.

In unfinished business, the board voted to pay $5,826 assessments on four lots owned by the district on 90th street in Colma.

In new business, the district rejected a costly contract of planting and maintenance of Oceana landscaping, in favor of having the district's own gardeners do the work. They accepted a low bid of $2,968.99 from Joe's Nursery for the plants and shrubs.

The next regularly scheduled meeting of the Jefferson High School district board will be Tuesday, September 11.

Tougher Solicitor Laws Are Planned

The Daly City police department's private war against scores of door-to-door solicitors which besiege Daly City homes might be solved in the near future.

City Attorney Paul Hupf is preparing an ordinance designed to tighten up laws governing solicitors, peddlers and canvassers to better protect the homeowners.

Hupf said the prospective solicitor will be asked to:

1 — State his name, address and description of what he wants to sell or take orders for.

2 — Be photographed, fingerprinted and provide references, stating whether he has been convicted of any crime or misdemeanor — and whether he is free from any communicable disease.

The peddler will then be issued a license. But homeowners, police warned, should ask the solicitor to show his license. If they do not have a license they can be reported to authorities.

Police state it is also against the law to solicit after dark. Any legitimate solicitor will have identification issued by the city.

"No householder should ever suffer any form of high pressure or impoliteness on the part of a solicitor," Lieut. David Hansen said.

Wherever doubt exists, the police should be called. Citizens should beware that the solicitor could be casing a house for a burglary," he warned.

U. S. Astronaut Thanks Daly City

American astronaut John H. Glenn, Jr., has thanked the city of Daly City for naming a street after him.

In a letter to city attorney Paul Hupf, Glenn wrote: "It was most thoughtful of you to write to me, and I am deeply grateful for the honor which you have bestowed upon me."

Glenn continued: "I am happy to accept your good wishes on behalf of all those associated with Project Mercury. While my orbital flight was the focal point of the effort, it was made possible only because thousands of Americans, in and out of government, contributed the knowledge, the skill and the effort required for its success."

New Firemen In Training

Five new Daly City firemen are currently undergoing an intensive six weeks training program.

The men, Ronald Angelot, 269 S. Parkview; Gary Baker, 615 Midway avenue; Colma; Gerald Grey, 430 Higate; Erwin Kessler, 274 St. Catherine drive and Thomas S. Smith, 225 Ranier avenue, Colma, will receive one week of training at the Naval Fire Fighting School, Treasure Island, along with their course.

Youth Arrested In Stolen Sports Car

A San Bruno youth was arrested on auto theft charges last Saturday after he cracked up a red Corvette during a police chase on El Camino Real in South San Francisco.

Crash Kills S. M. Youth

Daly city police said they will cite Gary S. Holst, 18, of San Bruno, on manslaughter charges as the result of the death in Peninsula Hospital of John F. Moore, Jr., 19, of San Mateo.

Moore was a passenger in a car driven by Holst, which Daly City officers chased on suspicion. The car had been stolen in Sunnyvale. The youths smashed into another car on Old Mission road in Colma.

Police said Holst told them that he and Moore had consumed 12 quarts of beer between them.

The effect of the proposed Junipero Serra Freeway on Daly City in loss of tax dollars would appear to be not so great as might be suspected, according to Calvin Malone, city planner.

There are a total of 16 businesses and one commercially zoned property being displaced or lost to right-of-way acquisition in Daly City. Fourteen residential units will be displaced. The Junipero Serra Hospital and other businesses in Colma will also be affected.

In a report to the planning commission, Malone said that less than one per cent of the revenue and about 20 per cent of the commercially developed land of the city is being lost to the freeway.

The total approximate revenue loss is about $13,561. This is assuming the businesses would not be relocated.

Malone stated, however, that "assuming that only the land will be lost and its uses relocated, there will be a revenue loss of about $3,640 or significantly under one per cent of the total revenue received."

Commercial Land Available

Malone stated that "it would further appear that to rezone additional property to compensate for those properties lost to the right-of-way would be unnecessary, because adequate unused commercially zoned sites are available in Daly City which are similar in character to those being vacated."

The 16 businesses and one commercially zoned property being displaced or lost to right-of-way acquisition total an annual city property tax of $5,400 and business license fees of $436.

To Be Relocated

The following businesses in Daly City will be lost to the freeway:

Lake Mercel Nursery, 2231 Junipero Serra boulevard; Lake Merced Lodge, 2253 Junipero Serra; Cavalier Motel, 2263 Junipero Serra; Pacific Cement, 2293 Junipero Serra; Broadmoor Lumber, 2295 Junipero Serra; Gary's Union Service, 2397 Junipero Serra; Foster's Freeze, 300 School street;

Ghostly Grandma Still At Large

Iva Kroeger, San Francisco's ghostly grandma, who San Francisco police think may be baby-sitting within a few blocks of the basement graves of Mildred and Jay Arneson, had several social contacts in Daly City, according to local police.

The Ellington avenue mystery, only three blocks from the Daly City limits, continued as police received several calls from persons who thought they had seen her.

Mrs. Kroeger, who San Francisco police believe enjoys the cat and mouse game and probably hasn't strayed out of her own outer Mission district neighborhood, ate dinner at a Daly City cafe, regularly visited a Daly City laundromat and made out her income tax in this city, according to local officers.

Daly City police received a call August 23 that Mrs. Kroeger was reported shopping at Young's Market, Los Banos and Santa Barbara, at 6:20 p.m. She reportedly left the area in a white Mercury.

Checked out was a call from a man who had placed an ad for a housekeeper and thought the woman who answered the ad was Mrs. Kroeger. It was the wrong woman.

An anonymous phone call of a "look-alike" of a Los Olivos woman also proved false.

A call from the W. T. Grant Company in Westlake reported Iva making the rounds of the stores with two other females and two men. These leads were turned over to San Francisco police. Officers reported several calls reporting the woman with her four companions.

Man Burned When Gasoline Explodes

A Daly City man received first, second and possible third-degree burns on both forearms last Saturday when gasoline exploded near a water heater as he was cleaning his basement with gasoline.

Treated at Junipero Serra Hospital was Richard Bonelli, 24, of 32 Gambetta drive, an employee of M & K Construction Company, San Francisco.

3—A tour of the facilities and an opportunity to visit classrooms and work-book lockers.

The final phase of the Tuesday, September 4, orientation program consists of pre-registration and testing of all students not previously registered or tested by the district.

The bus schedule for the September 4 orientation programs will be as follows:

Bigamy Angle Enters Case As Grand Jury Indicts O'Brien

Daly City police learned yesterday that Robert O'Brien, the former Daly City man who shot and killed his estranged wife in front of her home at 169 Avalon street on August 19, was married again.

Acting on an anonymous tip, detective Lester Bastido found that O'Brien was wed to Virginia Pierini on July 7 in Reno Township, Washoe County, Nevada.

The woman gave the same Fallen Leaf address in Los Altos as O'Brien.

Daly City police lieutenant Dave Hansen said that as yet no bigamy charges have been filed, but that it is being investigated.

In the meantime, earlier in the day the San Mateo County Grand Jury indicted O'Brien on charges of involuntary manslaughter.

The jury, convening at 8 p.m. Monday, heard five hours of testimony before returning the indictment against O'Brien at 1 o'clock Tuesday morning.

O'Brien, 29, surrendered to Daly City police yestreday morning and was turned over to the sheriff's office and booked at the county jail in Redwood City on the resulting warrant.

He was later freed on bail.

His arraignment was set for September 30.

O'Brien has claimed that the killing of his estranged wife, Kathleen Ann, was an accident. He asserted that he had come to his wife's home in Daly City to take two of his children target-shooting.

His wife was standing on the sidewalk beside the car when the gun went off, fatally wounding her. O'Brien contended that he was moving the gun to the back seat, out of reach of the children, when it went off.

O'Brien said he had taken the clip out, but had forgotten about the loaded shell in the chamber.

Mrs. O'Brien was pronounced dead on arrival at the Junipero Serra hospital.

7621st Transport, An Unusual Outfit

Put an Internal Revenue agent, a glazier, several students and a traffic director together, mix with a Highway Patrol instructor and you have a unique organization.

Even by U. S. Army standards, the 7621st Transportation Unit, currently undergoing summer training at Camp Roberts, is regarded as an unusual outfit.

PFC Raymond M. Monks, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph M. Monks, 65 Perita, Daly City, is a student at City College of San Francisco, is a clerk typist for the 7621st.

The 20 men and two WACS of the 7621st, all residents of the San Francisco area, lead normal civilian lives during most of the year.

But every summer they travel to a different part of the nation to learn a new phase of the army transportation business. In the event of war they will be one of a handful of units throughout the country responsible for training tens of thousands of Transportation Corps soldiers.

Under the command of Colonel John H. Moller, the 7621st is working on problems involved in light truck transportation. In the past the unit has traveled to Coronado for amphibius exercises, and flown across the country to Ft. Eustis, Va., to work on helicopter and railroad problems.

The San Francisco Bay area has three large outdoor theatres: the Greek Theatre in Berkeley, the Woodminster Theatre in Oakland and the Sigmund Stern Grove in San Francisco.

Local Forester Gets Washington, D.C., Position

Regional Forester Chas A. Connaughton announced today that Ernest E. Draves will be transferred to the chief's office of the United States Forest Service in Washington, D.C., from the regional office in San Francisco, effective Sept. 16, 1962.

Draves, his wife and their three children have been living in Daly City. They have been very active in youth group and community activities there. They plan to leave for Washington early in September.

Draves, a graduate forester from the University of California, has been a research forester for the Pacific Southwest Forest and Range Experiment Station in Berkeley, and has served in administrative positions on the Lassen and Los Padres National Forests in California.

He moved to the regional office as information officer from his job as district ranger at San Luis Obispo on the Los Padres Forest in 1958. In his present job he has been working actively in the Cooperative Forest Fire Prevention Program and with educators and others interested in developing conservation education curricula for the public schools. He has also helped make Forest Service movies and has worked with members of the press on stories featuring National Forest activities.

In his new job, Draves will be assisting with the Forest Service Visitors' Information Program. This is a new program to help interpret the forest surroundings to national forest visitors and thus make their stay more interesting and enjoyable.

Second Lieutenant Jeannette Adams, 101 Palmcrest drive, Daly City, was an instructor of communications at the Civil Air Patrol encampment at Mather Air Force Base, which ended last Saturday.

She is a member of Golden Gate Squadron 30.

This year the encampment was a joint exercise, with cadets from California and Nevada attending with a number of honor cadets from the state of Washington.

$900 Fire In Upholstery Shop

A fire, apparently started by a discarded cigarette, caused an estimated $900 damage Wednesday evening, Aug. 22 to the interior of the Westlake Upholstery Shop, 6157 Mission street.

Two chesterfield sofas were burned and the flames were hot enough to crack the plaster on the walls. The fire smoldered for some two hours after the shop closed at 5 p.m. It was reported at 6:59 p.m.

Armstrong College To Open Sept. 24

Armstrong College in Berkeley will enter its 45th year when the Fall Quarter starts September 24.

John E. Armstrong, president of the well-known private institution that was founded in 1918 by his father, states that applications are running ahead of last year and that a similar situation is reported by colleges and universities throughout the West. Mr. Armstrong attributes this in part to the steady growth of California and the western part of the nation. Of equal importance is a growing realization on the part of students and parents that the top jobs are going to those college graduates who are the best prepared.

Thirty-one faculty members will offer over 100 subjects in the fields of accounting, business management, and secretarial administration, when the fall term starts.

Mr. Armstrong stated that the opportunity for young men and women in the business world is greater than ever. "We are living in an age of office revolution," Mr. Armstrong said. "Industry, business, and government are begging for enthusiastic young people who have the education and the capacity to accept responsibility. To meet this unprecedented demand for leadership, education for business has become the fastest growing segment of education in America today."

Public Utility Assessments Final; Daly City's Set At $3,565,920

Assessment of public utility properties became final this week as the State Board of Equalization confirmed the values adopted for county tax purposes two weeks ago and approved separate utility rolls for the 75 cities which still do their own assessing of non-utility properties and collect their own property taxes.

The assessed values on the board-prepared city rolls totaled 406 million dollars. This amount is three per cent higher than the aggregate 1961 total on the same rolls, according to George R. Reilly, chairman of the State Board of Equalization.

California cities may either assess and collect their own property taxes or contract with the county to do the work for a nominal fee. This year, 19 general-law cities which had been assessing and collecting their own property taxes transferred these functions to the county. The number of such transfers effective for the first time on the 1962 rolls was half the total accomplished in the preceding decade. This accelerated rate is directly attributable to 1962 legislation which permits general-law cities to raise their needed revenue by adjusting the tax rate and using the lower assessed values prepared by the county.

In addition, one chartered city — Bakersfield — and five recently incorporated cities also decided to make use of the county tax machinery and thus avoid duplicting work within cities which the county assessor must of necessity perform for the county and its school and special-purpose districts. At the present time only one out of every five of the state's 377 cities are duplicating these functions.

Cities which administer their own taxes generally assess property at a higher percentage of market value than do their counties. In the aggregate, the 75 self-assessing cities carry 26 per cent more assessed value than was placed on the same properties for county tax purposes.

Eleven cities prepared 1962 assessment rolls that totaled two or more times the related county totals, 19 had totals that range from one and one-half to just under two times the county figures. There were nine cities, however, that assessed at the same level as their counties and five which assessed below the county level.

In Daly City, the state board assessed utility properties at $3,676,210 for county taxation and at $3,565,920 for city taxation this year.

Great Western Real Estate Loans Increase

Residential real estate loans totaling $263,577,830 were made throughout California during the first seven months of 1962 by the seven savings and loan associations affiliated with the Great Western Financial Corporation, it was announced by Elwood A. Teague, vice president.

This was an increase of 25.5 per cent over the $209,944,036 loaned during the corresponding period last year, he said. Funds were used to finance both new residential construction and acquisition of existing properties.

In the San Francisco Bay area, Guaranty Savings and First Savings reported loans totaling $66,180,003 for the seventh-month period. This compares with $55,553,668 last year, an increase of 19 per cent.

In southern California, Great Western Savings and Loan Association made loans totaling $124,571,325 as compared with $96,482,446 a year ago, an increase of 29.1 per cent. Santa Ana Savings loaned $29,473,804 against $12,832,767 last year, a gain of 129.7 per cent.

During the same period, West Coast Savings, Sacramento; Central Savings, San Luis Obispo, and Bakerfield Savings loaned a total of $43,352,698.

UNUSAL NAMES

Loco Hills, Pep, Lingo, Pie Town, Rosebud and High Lonesome are some of the unusual names of towns to be found in New Mexico, according to the National Automobile Club.

B. HIXSON (right) of 194 Westbrook avenue, Daly City, was honored as a recipient of Campbell Soup Company's highest annual award for overall outstanding sales performance. Congratulating him is W. B. Murphy, Campbell president. The merit award is given for consistent outstanding performance during the last fiscal year.

Upward Trend In Auto Thefts

The California Highway Patrol's July arrests for auto theft jumped 76 per cent, compared to the same month last year, a reflection of the patrol's recent training emphasis upon identification of stolen vehicles and auto thieves, Commissioner Bradford M. Crittenden said.

"Recoveries of stolen vehicles also were up 22 per cent," he said. Both figures were far higher than the increase in auto thefts, which climbed 11 per cent on the same month-to-month comparison.

"The upward trend in arrests is also apparent in August figures," the commissioner said. "Nearly as many arrests were made by patrol officers in the first half of August this year as during the entire month last year.

"Special training of all patrol officers began in mid-June to increase their efficiency in recognizing stolen vehicles, and in conducting investigations in cases where officers suspect a car has been stolen."

The commissioner also credited new records' handling procedures through which all patrol offices and other police agencies receive a daily list of stolen and wanted vehicles with assisting in the effort to recover vehicles and apprehend auto thieves.

Winters Are Colder, But Are Also Warmer

By JACK WOOD

A San Francisco newspaper columnist once quoted author Mark Twain as saying the coldest winter he ever spent was "a summer in San Francisco."

And this is certainly borne out with current weather statistics.

San Franciscans, persons living along the coastside in general and especially Daly City residents, have experienced one of the coldest summers on record. Even the weather bureau admits it.

And after talking to weather bureau public service forecaster John Selnser at the San Francisco International Airport, one gets the opinion that weather forecasters are not prone to making any definite statements.

Blow Over

Selnser would say a few things, however.

He said the reason why San Francisco, Daly City, South San Francisco and San Bruno have experienced more fog than any other area — especially Marin County and farther down the Peninsula — is because San Francisco fog has no high hills to block it. It just blows right in. The fog especially blows in easily through the Golden Gate.

Redwood City, he said, is warmer than San Francisco because high hills on the coast block off the fog. The same is true, for the most part, for Sausalito — the business part of town, that is.

The unusually long, cold and overcast spell this summer followed a hot spell around June 21. After that it stayed cool and foggy until August 11.

Off and On

The reason for the fog, of course, is because the high pressure air off shore is drawn inland by low pressure areas in the San Joaquin and Santa Clara valleys.

Sometimes the Daly City area might get a warm spell in May or in June. Hottest day of this year was 88 degrees on June 21.

September is usually the warmest and best month in this locale. The weather bureau shows that the monthly temperatures average the following:

May, 62 degrees; June, 65; July, 64; August, 65, and September, 68.

Selnser pointed out that the extensive cold spell is not the normal pattern for the summer. It is usually sort of off and on —cold one day and warm the next— sunny and foggy.

And, although the weather is generally colder in the winter than in the summer, Selnser pointed out another strange thing — something to think about — the tendency for the weather is to be cold and foggy in summer and warm and nice in the winter. Are you confused? So am I.

Number of businesses affected in Colma include:

Colma Community Center, Giardella Fencing Contractor, Neville Ford body department, garage; Riviera Sofa Bed Co., Hancock Gas Station, Bob's Motel, Neville Ford pre-cleaning and used car lot, Junipero Serra Hospital, the Steak Pit Restaurant, Pappa's Greenhouse, the Adam Paint Co., and Joe's Nursery.

In 1961, Daly City received approximately $447,600 in sales tax. The 16 businesses which are being dislocated contributed an average of $7,390 or 1.7 per cent of the total revenue received from sales tax.

Based on an estimated population of 44,000, the annual gasoline tax received by Daly City is about $132,000. With the freeway displacing 14 residential units, the annual gasoline tax will be reduced by about $135.

Cal Extension Courses Slated

University of California Extension courses for adults begin in early September at the San Francisco Extension Center, on the U.C. Berkeley campus, and in other locations throughout Northern California.

Weekly evening classes, many offering university credit, will be given in education, business administration and economics, liberal arts, and engineering and sciences.

A free catalogue is now available from University of California Extension, Berkeley 4, California.

Gardener's Checklist

1—Aphis are less a problem with roses in late summer but mites are a real threat. Examine underside of leaves for their webbing and spray on sight.

2—Cut back delphiniums after the second bloom, but don't force them into a third bloom. It wears them out. Some may bloom again anyway.

3—Thin rank growth on grapes to admit light to the center of the vine.

4—Plant shade trees. The late August sun should let you know where you need them. They are available in cans at your nursery.

5—Start planting stocks, snapdragons and other winter bedding plants.

PETROLEM

Oue of every ten barrels of petroleum delivered to refineries and terminals, three to four barrels travel by ocean-going tankers, according to the National Automobile Club.

Another Birthday

California will celebrate another birthday on September 9, exactly 112 years since her admission to the Union.

As usual, it will be a happy occasion, with patriotic programs in many communities. Bands will play and orators will recall that hilarious day in San Francisco in 1850 when word first came that Congress had granted California statehood. The gold rush was at its height.

Ten years before, in 1840, there were few more than 200 Americans in California. Today our population grows by leaps and bounds. The state prospers in industry and business and is rich in culture. We have set an example for the nation in care of the aged and the needy, in prison reform, public hospitals and other institutions.

To our pioneers we owe unbounded gratitude. On virgin soil and in the face of hardships, they carved a pattern of teamwork that built a sturdy commonwealth dedicated to the highest principles of Americanism.

They worked side by side—pioneers of every race and of every religion. They were too busy to even think of differences. Prejudices were not in their minds. Only the building of a new state was their concern.

The Record Speaks

The Chicago Daily News recently had something to say about the much-maligned medical profession which deserves the widest possible reading. Here, in part, is its view: "In these times doctors seem constantly to be under attack as self-centered, venal, 'old-fashioned' in their fear of socialization of their profession, even callous in their regard for the welfare of the older portion of the population.

"We don't doubt there are some bad doctors; the AMA is constantly policing its own vast membership, disciplining those who take too easy a view of the profession's high standards.

"But the record of the past couple of decades eloquently reflects the wisdom of entrusting the medical profession with its assigned tasks and the freedom to carry them out in its own way. One by one the great scourges — diphtheria, smallpox, typhoid, polio, tuberculosis — have been or are being wiped out. Cancer's days are clearly numbered, heart disease is under vigorous and effective attack.

"A single statistic . . . sums up the progress: If the 1937 death rate were still operative, 4,400,000 healthy Americans now living would be dead.

"These results did not just happen. An immense amount of hard work, of dedication, and service above and beyond the normal scope of duty brought them about."

This is what the record shows, and all the political attacks we have seen and will yet see can't change it. Political tinkering with U.S. medicine is a menace.

Help Them Help Themselves

Industrial firms in San Mateo County were invited this week to help reduce the tax burden in the community while cutting their own operational costs. "This is possible," reported St. George Lafitte, president of the society, "through the utilization of the worshop's space, equipment, and eager client workers now in training.

"This two-fold benefit to industry and the community comes about simply," added Lafitte. "A person trained or retrained for placement in industry is no longer a tax burden but instead becomes a tax payer. Even during the training period in the workshop, all earnings from subcontract work are deducted from such maintenance grants received by client workers as Aid to the Totally Disabled, General Assistance Grants, and Aid to Needy Children."

The workshop is now serving about 25 worker trainees but could easily serve twice that number if subcontract work from industry was increased, according to Lafitte. A variety of tools are available, including drill presses, electric saws, grinders, sanders, sewing machines and other power tools along with the ability to operate this equipment. Combine this with quality and production controls equal to business operations, and you have a service to help industry absorb nuisance jobs or non-profitable operations that might normally require the hiring of temporary help, payroll turnover, unemployment taxes, fringe benefits as well as other cost factors.

Interested individuals or individual firms interested in further information about the center and its operation, please call OXford 7-8924, for the Rehabilitation Workshop, a project of the Society for Crippled Children and Adults of San Mateo County.

The View From .. Behind The Badge

Written and Edited by Daly City Police Department

All in a night's work . . .

It was just another phone call. Sergeant Marigo Benedetti had answered many phone calls during his more than 25 years service. This call was from an out-of-town relative of a despondent 19-year-old housewife. The relative thought the young woman was about to commit suicide, and could the police please check?

Oh, yes— there was a further problem. The relative was able to give the Sergeant the victim's phone number — but not the address. With a patience born of many years of dealing with human vagaries, Sergeant Benedetti set about his task.

He dialed the number and engaged the woman in conversation. She sounded drowsy and despondent. No, she did not want any help. Yes, she was going to kill herself. She had taken sleeping pills and the gas jets were turned on in the apartment. No, she would not reveal her address.

Her voice grew fainter and fainter, and finally faded out altogether. Patrolman James Bergstrom, in the meantime, had contacted the specail agents for the telephone company. He was able, in this emergency, to elicit from them an address to go with the telephone number.

The sergeant, with Bergstrom and reserve officer Hubert Beaumont, broke existing speed records on the drive to the scene. There was no answer at the front door.

Sergeant Benedetti is an old hand with locked doors under emergency conditions. This one was a good study door of old time construction. The same description might be applied to him. The door gave way under his physical pursuasion; in short, Benedetti broke down the door.

Bergstrom turned off all the gas jets and opened all the windows. Benedetti and Beaumont carried the girl outside. Firemen arrived at the scene and applied the resuscitator.

Eventually, the ambulance transported the victim to the hospital. The officers signed a "seventy-two hour hold," which put the victim under observation for a while so that she would not attempt further to harm herself. The woman will live.

Patrolman Robert Stables parked his radio car and walked the business section of his beat. His purpose was to shake the doors, as they say; that is, to test visually and manually, the security of each establishment. Part of the procedure involves the grasping of door handles and pushing in or out on the door to determine if the door has been either left open or forced open.

One of the doors was open. Stables entered the business establishment. While the door had probably been left unlocked through an oversight, it was his job to ascertain whether burglary was involved. It was also his job to locate any burglar still ilingering on the premises.

It was in the very early morning hours. Stables employed his all-important flashlight in his search. The flashlight beam spotted and skittered over tables and chairs, along the floor and across the wall. And there, in the corner, an object became illuminated, and Stables' heart skipped the proverbial beat.

The object was a disembodied human head.

Stables completed his investigation and reported to his sergeant. Neither man was inclined to think a crime had been committed. The door had been left open through an oversight. And there are numerous disembodied coiffured heads in the beauty school.

That brings to mind the saga of another officer, several years ago. The policeman found it necessary to check out a large furniture store, as a result of his finding a rear door open. It was a large establishment and very lonely. The officer searched with drawn revolver.

Turning a corner, he came face to face with another person. Each pointed his firearm at the other. In that instant, the officer had to determine whether or not to shoot.

But he held his fire — something about the other man looked familiar. He looked closer — and found that he was gazing at his image in a mirror.

The other day a very alert citizen phoned the police to report a burglary in progress. It seems that two men had just entered a house by way of the back window. The intrepid Sergeant Benedetti responded to the scene, along with Arthur Linhares. They were followed by Captain Beecher and patrolman Robert Crooker. The suspects were surprised to look up and see the sergeant come upon them through a rear door, and to see Linhares approaching the front door.

The suspects claimed that they were in the house legitimately — that they had to move some furniture for a friend. Why had they entered through the window? They had simply lost the house key.

The officers took the trouble to check out the story. Strangely, the men were telling the truth. The officers departed from the scene, each shaking his head sadly. It's all in a night's (or day's) work.

Something For Everyone

by
Samuel Chandler

A recent Gallup Poll found that nine out of ten people interviewed were immersed in problems they did not know how to solves. As a result, books on how to solve personal difficulties, overcome worry, meet our fears, and live a more satisfying and successful life have become popular.

Among them are the "self-help" books written by Norman Vincent Peale, John Schindler, Smiley Blanton, Douglas Lurton, Donald Laird and other well-known authors.

Among the most widely read volumes are Dr. Peale's two books, "The Power of Positive Thinking" and "Stay Alive All Your Life." Both books offer advice on how to unlearn negative patterns of living and substitute positive ones. Also widely read is John Schindler's "How to Live 365 Days a Year."

Other popular self-help books are "The Magic of Balanced Living," by John Tebbel; "The Life You Want to Live," by Hyman Schachtel; "You and Your Fears," by Pete Steincrohn; "On Being a Real Person," by Harry Emerson Fosdick; "The Art of Working with People," by Edward Hodnett; "Prescription for Anxiety," by Leslie D. Weatherhead; "Freedom from Fear," by Lester Coleman; "Live and Help Live," by Samuel Kraines, and "High Hopes for Low Spirits," by David Seabury.

Help in solving family difficulties is given in such recent books as "The Growing Family; a Guide for Parents," by Maxwell Stewart. The articles cover various aspects of home lift that most married people have found taxing at one time or another.

A number of books also give advice and assistance to teen-agers and smaller children. They include William Menninger's "Tow to Be a Successful Teen-ager"; Irene McDermott's "Living for Young Moderns," and Selma H. Fraiberg's "The Magic Years."

The Daly City Public Library owns copies of each of these books. They may be charged out for two weeks.

"Beautiful" is one of the most overworked words in the English language. It is kicked around so much, it is often meaningless and describes nothing. Yet it is a meaningful and useful word.

"Beautiful" is the adjective form of the word beauty, which my dictionary says is commonly used to describe that which excites admiration or delight for itself rather than for its uses.

This means that that which is beautiful can not be commonplace, grotesque, or misshapened for such things do not excite admiration. To be beautiful, then, an object, a person, a creative work, a scene from nature has to be the most nearly perfect of its kind. It must be the essence of an ideal, the most perfect result of following a pattern. Nothing short of this is really beautiful. A thing may be pretty; it may be useful, but it is not necessarily beautiful.

This definition, however, does not fully satisfy some technicians and some scientists. They claim that the object that is the most beautiful is the most useful. Although they readily agree that that which is most perfect is usually the most beautiful, they contend that a beautiful object need not excite aesthetic admiration.

In works of art, beauty is determined by the admiration it excites with use being secondary. Literature in a work of art. Hence books and poetry that are grotesque, far fetched, commonplace or employ poor grammar and sentence structure are not beautiful. They do not excite admiration because they lack perfection.

It is true that some novels that are not beautiful become extremely popular, but they soon die and are forgotten while truly beautiful works go on exciting admiration year after year.

The Daly City Youth Commission, formed after the Thornton Beach slaying with the idea to investigate avenues to improve juvenile recreation and eliminate juvenile problems in this area, have been moving along a positive path.

Through this committee's action, a county-wide youth committee was formed . . . with representatives from each city.

A plan to investigate mental health facilities for Daly City was started.

And Paris Simmons, author of the "Why" column on juvenile problems in the Westlake Times and Shopping News, was named to a youth committee.

Committee chairman Bob St. Clair said the group will next look into the possibilities of what additional teenage programs are needed — especially for the teenage girl — who is often left out of the recreation picture.

Love That Fog

Commenting on a Times story last week that Daly City has the nation's highest birth rate . . . was Mayor Joseph Verducci, who cracked: "It's the fog. There's nowhere to go at night."

Another city official sagely remarked that "This really proves we are a bedroom community."

Lost Canaries

Martin Kaczmark, 74-year-old bird lover, figures it was an inside job.

A thief stole 20 of his best canaries and left the worst ones. Martin, who used to ride the pre-World War I cavalry, resides at 251 Willits street, Daly City.

He raises pigeons, parakeets and canaries in an aviary on his property. He also grows dahlias, which he gives away to his neighbors.

But in the past couple of years, someone has been picking off his bird supply.

The wonder of it is that he is philosophical about the whole thing. As he stated: "They got them . . . so what can I do?"

Kaczmark has always been a bird lover. At the present time, he has several pigeons, about fifty parakeets and a few of what's left of his canaries.

It all started when his grandmother got him a couple of rabbits. Kaczmark lived near a brewery and the pigeons would fly around and eat the grain. He would rig a box propped up with a stick and trap pigeons by pulling the stick from under the box.

As a mule skinner for the Army in China, Martin also trapped squabs.

He is a bird lover, but is not a finicky one . . . as he admits . . . "Right now I got seven nice squabs in the freezer."

COUNTY DOINGS

by JACK WOOD

Daly City, Colma, Pacifica and San Bruno may be dropped out of a flood control district proposed to serve a large north county area.

The action would leave only South San Francisco and the surrounding unincorporated area in the district.

Leo Ryan, mayor of South San Francisco, made the suggestion at a public hearing in Redwood City. He said it would be more advisable to form the district on a smaller scale now than to wait for legislative approval of amendments to the county flood control act that might remove the objection of the other cities.

It is generally agreed that South San Francisco would receive most of the benefits of the proposed $2,770,000 flood control project. The city, lying at the lowest elevation of any of the cities in the area, has been hard hit by floods in recent years.

Westborough Hearing

Supervisor James V. Fitzgerald has said he will demand a hearing on the development plan for the sprawling Westborough subdivision.

The county planning commission has approved the plan, which calls for construction of "town houses" which have no side yards and share common areas.

Town Hall Association, a taxpayers group that has attacked the plan, held an open meeting on the subject in the board of supervisors' conference room last week.

Town Hall spokesmen have declared that the "Town House" concept would place an undue burden on schools and would create a "future slum clearance project."

LAW IN ACTION

OUT OF STATE DRIVERS AND VEHICLES

Each year motorists by the thousands visit California and thus become subject to our traffic laws.

An adult pleasure car driver from elsewhere with a valid license can drive a year in California before he must get a license here. Others must get a California driver's license within 30 days. A youngster under 21 must get one within 10 days.

How do you know whether someone means to stay in California? You come to stay, the law assumes, if you get a job here.

The Department of Motor Vehicles often issues the out-of-stater a 60-day license until he gets his permanent one.

If an out-of-state motorist gets into an accident, he must put up cash or bonds to cover the damage, or show that he is well covered by insurance. Otherwise, the state may lift his driving license. An out-of-stater who has had many accidents before coming here may have his license suspended and his driving privileges taken away. California may store his car at his expense until he can show financial responsibility.

You can sue an out-of-state motorist who gets into an accident even when he leaves the state. You serve the papers upon him through the California Secretary of State who under the law is his "agent" for law suits if he gets into an accident.

Note: California lawyers offer this column so you may know about our laws.

Senior Citizens Enjoy Picnic At JPS Park

On their regular weekly day of meeting, the Westlake Senior Citizens packed a bus to capacity and a couple of cars and went to Junipero Serra Park for a picnic.

After all the food and equipment was carried to the shelter, a fire was built in the fireplace and lunch prepared with a special serving of cookies.

Then a bingo game was played and everybody won a prize. Cards, canasta, dominoes and croquette followed.

To show how enthusiastic the members are for days like this, Mrs. Mary Misenhimer, 94 years young, was present and enjoyed every minute of the time spent there.

This group meets every Wednesday from 10:30 a.m. till 3 p.m. at the Baptist Church social rooms on Southgate avenue, near Elmwood drive.

The members bring their own sandwiches. Tea, coffee and cookies are served. The group is non-denominational and all senior citizens past 50 are welcome.

At one time, about 500 A.D., there were simultaneously six Roman emperors: Galerious, Maximin, Maxentius, Constantius, Constantine and Licinus.

top of the hill

By ARTEMUS BIERCE

Several weeks ago, one of our good buddies, bless his poor, unfortunate soul, asked us to be an usher at his wedding. We accepted and were very much honored.

So last week, several days before the momentous occasion, we traipsed up to a San Francisco tux-renter to get outfitted.

The highly polished clerk, after taking our measurements, asked us if we needed shoes or suspenders. We cast a rather sardonic gaze at the man as if to say, "Either you're awfully studid, buddy, or you're taking us for an idiot."

"Of course, we have suspenders and shoes, everybody has those," we assured disdainfully.

We put the tux in the closet and forgot about it until the morning of the wedding. We arose early that morn and prepared for the tedious task of climbing into the multi-button, cuff-linked, suspender-held, sweat-box.

We decided that we had better give the old shoes a brief going over with polish before getting dressed.

We turned on the light in the closet, brushed away a few cobwebs, and descended upon our shoe-rack.

HORRORS!

We scrambled vainly around the closet, but nowhere in sight was there a pair of conventional black shoes with shoe-strings.

We found Italian loafers, Scandinavian loafers, French loafers, East German loafers and Outer-Mongolian loafers. We also found white bucks, beige bucks, chartreuse bucks, ivy-green bucks and orched bucks. But much to our dismay, nowhere could we find just a plain ordinary pair of conventional black shoes.

We decided to forsake this venture for a few minutes until we could regain our composure, which was somewhat shattered at this time.

In the meantime, we thought we would get the old suspenders out of the drawer. Again we were taken aback. There were skinny belts, thick belts, ivy belts and continental belts, all tangled in the drawer looking at us like a nest of mocking rattlesnakes.

By this time we were in need of several days rest at Agnew. We finally realized our plight. We were a victim of the ivy-age. Everything in snap-tab and thin lined.

We had succumbed to the subliminal call of the Madison Avenue boys and were now completely dominated by a disease which is known as "the conforming Continental Ivy-Leaguer."

We experienced another startling revelation when we took a further peek at our wardrobe in the closet. It was a mass of leering snap-tab collars, sinister-looking slim tapered slacks, and those hideous button-down shirts.

We made several phone calls to friends in hopes of obtaining the necessary articles of garb. We were astounded to discover that we weren't the only ones who had been victimized.

After an hour of frantic phoning, we found a friend who lived out in the sticks and hadn't quite succumbed to the subtle pressures of the ivy-age.

We are happy to report that we made the wedding on time, void of snap-tabs, loafers, slim-legged trousers and skinny belt, and for the first time in several years actually felt free. The ivy-leagued monkey had fallen off our back.

PTAs Recruiting Polio Volunteers

San Mateo County Parent-Teacher Associations are recruiting 1,000 vitally-needed volunteer workers in the tremendous K. O. POLIO campaign to immunize 3½ million Bay Area residents against the disease and end it forever here.

Volunteers will serve as registrars and tabulators at the 46 K. O. POLIO stations needed to supply the county's 450,000 residents with the highly effective Sabin oral polio vaccine on Sunday, September 23.

Directing recruitment are Mrs. L. E. Engleman, 1111 17th avenue, Redwood City, president of the all-county 17th District of the California Congress of PTA's, and assistants Mrs. J. E. Gamblem, 2644 Martinez drive, Burlingame, and Mrs. B. S. Green, 725 Ada street, San Mateo.

Registrars will be charged with keeping 5,000 to 15,000 adults and children going smoothly through each station on K. O. POLIO SUNDAY and seeing that they are properly registered.

Tabulators will keep running totals on vaccine recipients in separate age groups during the day, then make a final tally to be entered in the Bay Area total.

Sabin vaccine is easily swallowed on a sugar cube. A nominal donation of 25 cents per dosage is requested but vaccine will be supplied free to all who cannot pay for it.

Perry, Whitelaw Open SSF Car Care Center

A business partnership which began fifteen years ago was climaxed last Thursday, August 25, with the opening of a new Perry & Whitelaw Car Care Center at Spruce and Victory avenues in South San Francisco. The firm also operates facilities in San Francisco and San Mateo and is distributor for B. F. Goodrich tires.

"The basis of our business," stated James Whitelaw, president of the firm, "is what we call 'the running gear safety' of the automobile. No matter what else might be wrong with a car, the only real safety insurance is in good tires, sound brakes and proper steering controls. The minute it is in motion, every one of these items comes into use. Our job is to provide the very best of car care."

In selecting South San Francisco, the other partner, Robert S. Perry, pointed to the growth of the area and its central location. "Our retreading factory," he said, "can now handle the increasing volume of both passenger and truck tire retreading. We consider this a major addition to our business."

During the balance of the month, Perry & Whitelaw is conducting an "open house" with gifts and prizes for motorists who visit any of the Centers, with a top award of an all-expense-paid weekend for two in Las Vegas.

Clergy Urges Citizens To Vote Nov. 6

Leading members of the clergy in the Bay area are anxious that their entire congregations register to vote, it was announced this week. It was the general opinion that to maintain the good social reforms, the citizenry at large must keep moving forward in Christian social relations.

In order to vote in the general election on November 6, all persons must register on or before September 13, which is the deadline for registration. It was stressed that it is the duty of every person of voting age to keep a civil vigil on their families and neighbors to urge them to register to vote so that they may have a voice in their government.

Among members of the clergy who are carrying weekly reminders in their church bulletins and making announcements from their pulpits regarding the September 13 deadline to register to vote are:

Father Robert G. Adams, St. Columba's Catholic Church; Antioch Catholic Church; Rev. A. O. Bell, North Oakland Baptist Church; Rev. Boyd, Star Bethel Baptist Church; Rev. J. R. School Leaders Share Load In Polio Campaign

San Mateo County school superintendents and principals are shouldering a full share of the load in the massive and complex K. O. POLIO campaign this fall to eliminate the disease forever in the Bay Area.

They are selecting school sites for the 46 K. O. POLIO stations needed to supply San Mateo County's 445,000 residents with Sabin oral polio vaccine on Sunday, Sept. 23.

On that date, K. O. POLIO stations throughout the Bay Area will be in operation to immunize 3½ million people against polio.

Directing school officials here are James R. Tormey, San Mateo County superintendent of schools, and Warren Natwick, assistant county superintendent.

School principals will organize and direct all non-medical operations at the stations. They also will be responsible for the physical layout, receive and return all non-medical supplies and oversee records.

In addition, during the next few weeks they will see that their students take home pre-registration forms and K. O. POLIO fact folders in an effort to reach every family.

Sabin vaccine is swallowed on a sugar cube. A nominal donation of 25 cents a dosage is requested but it will be supplied free to those who can't afford it.

War Orphans Education Aids Students Of Deceased Vets

Between 10,000 and 12,000 young men and women are expected to apply for training in the nation's schools and colleges this fall under the six-year-old Veterans Administration War Orphans Education program, according to Glenn Corbitt, manager of VA's Northern California Regional office.

Since the start of the plan in 1956 about 45,000 have entered training. The average monthly enrollment is expected to be 15,000 this year. The education program is for the sons and daughters of veterans whose death was from disabilities or illness incurred in active service.

Called "orphans" even though one parent is still alive, these eligible "children" generally must be between 18 and 23 years of age. They may marry without losing eligibility. They either must have completed or have been a student in a regular high school. They may receive up to 36 months of schooling with the VA paying an allowance of up to $110 a month for each month they are at school.

The present marital status of the surviving parent does not affect these orphans. Before they start school, they will be given vocational counseling to help them select a goal and the proper course leading to that goal, Corbitt said.

From A Feminine Viewpoint...

By Mona Baker

Do you want to know how to walk, sit, stand gracefully? Every woman wants to be as charming and attractive as possible. As a community service and because there is such interest locally, the YWCA will again hold its annual "Model's Training Day" at the Westlake Bowl on September 12 at 10 a. m.

Guest instructor will be lovely Diane Darnell, a graduate of San Francisco State College and currently with the House of Charm and Bebner Casting Agency. She has had five years experience teaching charm as well as modeling and appearing on television. She has a part in the coming Sam Benedict television series and her most recent commercial is the one on Dial soap. She also modeled in the recent Union Square Fashion Show that was telecast coast-to-coast over the NBC network.

Open to the public, any woman who is interested in modeling or perhaps learning just a few little hints about how to make themselves more attractive are invited to attend. Do plan to come—there is no charge.

Oh, by the way, if you are interested in a longer course in charm, Diane will be teaching a whole series beginning in September as well as an afternoon class on teen-age charm, for the YWCA.

Our nominee for a community leader this week appeared a few months ago over the Westinghouse television network on the program "PM West," where she participated in a special panel discussion. She was selected to represent the "typical American mother."

Certainly she has shown great interest in the affairs of the community and given many hours of volunteer work, as well as sharing many activities with her family. She believes "doing things together as a family is important."

Active in PTA, she was president of Vista Mar twice, public health chairman of the 17th District, and chairman of the coordinating committee of Daly City. She was YWCA North County area chairman on the program planning committee at the 520 Sutter YWCA and section chairman of United Crusade.

Since her particular interest is teen-agers, she will be teen-age representative for the coming season on the YWCA north area committee as parliamentarian at Benjamin Franklin PTA.

Again we salute another dedicated community leader, Jessie West! The Wests, husband Tom, and two youngsters, Tommy and Janet, live at 1496 South Mayfair in Westlake.

As fashion conscious as the older youngsters are the small fry. New for younger girls as well as her older sisters are "shifts," in wide choice of colors and fabrics. The slim, lean look, too, for boys is high fashion in straight, beltless slackes and "league" touches.

It was a "bon voyage" breakfast held at the San Francisco International Airport last Sunday for Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Craner, who are celebrating their 25th anniversary with a trip to Hawaii.

House guests of the Jack Kimberleys are Virginia's brother and sister-in-law, Karl and Frances George, and four youngsters from Mineola, Texas.

Also from Texas, visiting at the home of Mrs. O. Cavitt, were Mrs. Rent Wilson and Mrs. E. A. Berry of Fort Worth and Walter Jenkins of Waco.

Just returned from a vacation in the Santa Cruz mountains is Bernard Cavitt.

Jetting back from a vacation in New York are Jack and Lil Rauch and daughters, Allyn and Mindy, who visited friends and relatives in New York and Long Island.

A vacation spent in Sequoia and Kings National parks was on the summer schedule of Carole and George Ritter.

Also just back from a vacation spent at the Seattle World's Fair are Ray and Mary Lichtenberg, and two children, Rayme and Beth.

Meek's Bay at Tahoe was the locale for a vacation spent by Meredith Orloff and son, Richard, accompanied by friend John Tuttle, while hubby, Martin, stayed home and painted their house.

Just back from a trip to Disneyland are Jean and Jim Grealish and three children, Kent, Kathy and Susie.

On vacation is the Bill Coleman family, who are spending two weeks at Carmel.

the winner's circle

By GARRY NIVER

Last Sunday, in the warm sun at Frank Youell Field in Oakland that city had its first venture into Big League anything.

The Oakland Raiders, who for two years previously have been sort of a wandering gypsy crew, were welcomed home in grand style as 17,000 fans turned out to watch them bow stubbornly to the San Diego Chargers, 33-27.

It was quite a jump compared with the scene two years ago last July when the green Raiders made their American Football League debut against the Dallas Texans before 4,000 people in fog-shrouded Kezar Stadium.

That day there seemed to be more orange-shirted venders than overcoated rooters.

But the Raiders have finally found a home and the city of Oakland provided a welcome which they so richly deserved.

CHARLIE FULLER
. . . Finds a Home

Let's hope that the Oakland fans continue to display the same affinity towards their own team as they showed last Sunday.

The Raiders, though not too strong in personnel, seem to have developed the best that they could with the amount of cash that was dropped into the till during the past twoyears.

The owners took some tremendous losses during that time and it will take several good paying seasons to get them anywhere near the break-even point.

But if the fans continue to accept them as their own, in a few years the Raiders should have a team which will be a credit to themslves and the proud city of Oakland.

One of the starters on the Raider team Sunday was a lad who did his prepping around the East Bay city. He is Charlie Fuller, former Vallejo High School and SF State Little All-American football player.

Fuller is one of the players which Daly City Mayor Joe Verducci helped to develop. This is the 185 pound speedster's second year with the Raiders and it looks as if Charlie and his teammates have found a home at last.

Federal Support Given Shelly's Hatchery Bill

Congressman John F. Shelley this week announced administration support for his bill to authorize a comprehensive salmon and steelhead-trout development program in California.

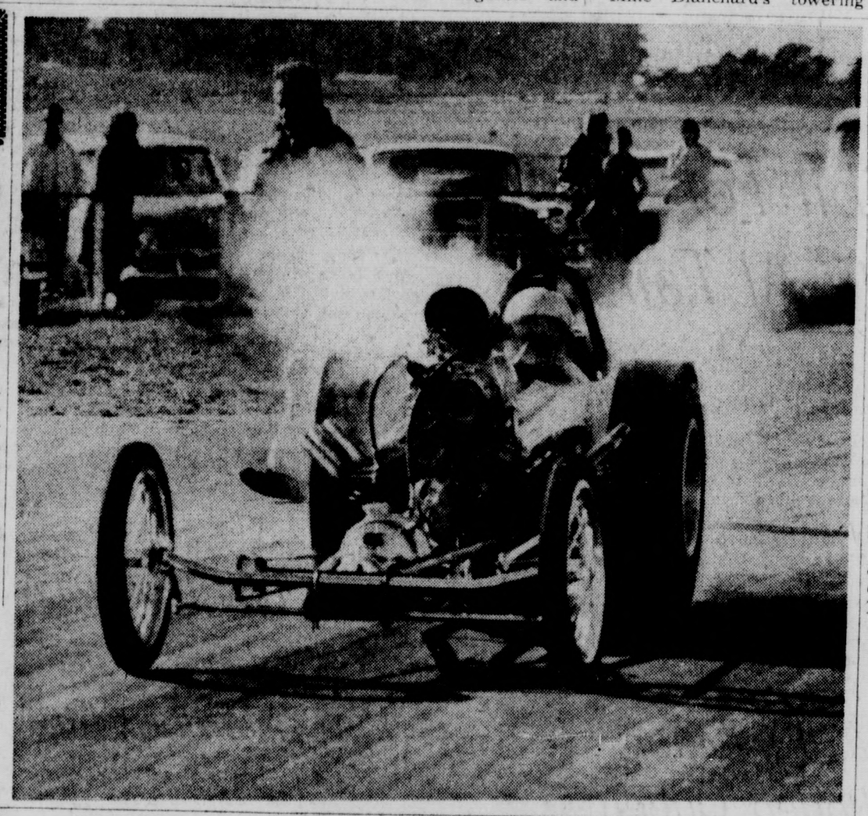
Shelley said he will press for hearings before Congress adjourns and that the House Marine and Fisheries Committee may hold hearings as early as this week.

The bill would authorize an 11 million dollar, five-year cooperative federal-state program of hatchery construction and spawning and habitat improvements on every key salmon and steelhead-trout stream in northern California.

Shelley said the program is similar to the "successful Columbia River Fishery Development Program authorized by Congress" several years ago.

"Such a cooperative program is essential," Shelley said, "because of diversion of water for irrigation, industrial and municipal use and the construction of dams has resulted in loss of runs of the fish. Enactment of this program will provide the first comprehensive action plan to reverse the sad history of salmon decline in California."

THE CHAMPIONS SPEED SHOP SPECIAL, the world's number two-ranked dragster, will be representing northern California at the American Hotrod Association's championships this coming Thursday in Green Valley, Texas.



DC Dragster Tops Half Moon Card

The gates open at 2 p.m. with eliminations slated for 7:30 p.m. Grandstand seating and free parking are available.

The Half Moon Bay Drag Strip is located 26 miles south of San Francisco on Coast Highway No. 1.

PAL Tigers Move Closer To Junior World Series

Daly City's PAL Tigers moved one step nearer to the San Francisco Recreation Department's junior world series when they dumped Upper Noe, 14-4.

Larry Black, Telvis Jones and Corky Phelps paced the Tiger attack at the plate. Black had a perfect day with three hits in three trips to the plate.

Tiger hurler DeWayne Morin went the distance for the locals, allowing only four hits.

This week the Tigers will meet the winner of the Funston-Bayview game in the semi-finals.

Members of the Tiger team are:

Val Sabuco, DeWayne Morin, Bob Banos, Larry Black, Telvis Jones, Ron La Rosa, Reggie Baumgardner, Barry Perone, Clive Jones, Nick Kosturos, Corky Phelps, Bob Duenas, Ron Smith, Grady Proctor, Luther Gregory, Kimo Sherbert and Jim Davis.

Coaches are George Pedroni, Bob Kramer, Tino Sabuco and Jim Davis. The PAL lads have won 40 of their 58 games played this season, with 16 losses and two ties.

Misracks, M&S Builders Tie For Midget Crown

Misracks Sporting Goods walloped Parkview of San Bruno, 12-2, to vault into a season-ending tie for first place in the Tri-City Midget Baseball League.

The Misracks win enabled the boys from Daly City to close their season with an 8-1 record and tie the M & S Builders from South San Francisco for the Midget coronet.

In posting their 8-1 record, Misracks, coached by Neil Mahoney, lost to the Builders in the season opener, and then went on to an eight-game win streak.

M & S, coached by Bob Collins, suffered their lone defeat at the hands of the San Bruno Merchants.

In the season finale, Misracks pounded Parkview's Matt Kriletich for 13 blows, including a trio of homers, while Bob Hilsenbager and Tom Owen teamed up on the mound to scatter seven hits and strike out 11 Parkview batters.

Jeff Becker, John Ward and Steve Gudelj connected for the round-trippers, all of the solo variety, to pace the slugging Misrack attack. Hilsenbager wielded the day's most productive bat, getting three hits in four trips to the plate.

In the only other league activity during the final week of play, Parkview edged the Sunshine Gardens Improvement Club, 5-2. The Parkview-San Bruno Merchant game, slated for last Friday, was cancelled and will not be made up.

It's SPARE TIME

at Westlake Bowl

By JIM GREALISH

Verle Dillon led her Sai Wu team to victory in the playoff match with the Toy Circus team in the Ladies' Scratch League as she posted a 191 game and 562 series. Sponsor Mrs. Barrie was on hand to cheer her team on to victory as the winner was not decided until the last frame of the final game.

With more than 3,000 bowlers already registered for the evening leagues during the coming season, Primo is a busy man conducting organizational meetings and fitting individual bowlers into teams and teams into leagues. He has openings for two men's handicap teams, two men's scratch teams and two mixed teams to fill out the league program.

Steve Bonnuccelli isone bowler who improves with time. In the four game Petersen Point Trio League, he always finishes strong in the extra game. Last week in the final night of league bowling, he posted a big 244 game and 826 series to lead the sharp shooters.

The Lake Merced Handicap League found Jerry Schreier leading the field last week with a 203 game and 562 series.

Sunday night promises to be the most popular night of the week at Westlake during the coming season. In addition to the No-Tap Sweeper, the two mixed leagues and the 510 Mixed Scratch Trio, no less than four travel leagues will visit Westlake on Sunday evenings. There is an opening for one team in the 510 Scratch Trio, according to Primo.

Westlake led the 13 participating bowling centers with almost 250 entries in the first week of competition in the Aid Retarded Children Benefit tournament now in progress and running until September 16. In the league competition, which ran for the first week only, winners were J. Farrell with 708; John Schmidt with 671, and Ross Guieb with 660 in the men's division, while the league ladies were led by Ruth Tobin with 583, Idele Newell with 581, and Jean Perada with 573. In the open play section, which continues until the end of the tournament, Larry Berghoff leads the men with 683, followed by Steve Nessinger with 666, and Dave Campbell with 660. Leading the ladies is Ev Keenan with 581, followed by E. Menezes with 554, and Adele Miley with 529. Bowlers may compete for the many valuable merchandise prizes at any time until the closing date, September 16.

Tim Bayless was the heavy shooter in the Westmoor Handicap as he prepared for the coming winter season with a big 257 game and 568 series.

It was all two's for Tony Montooth in the Marche Club League as he posted a 222 game and 606 series to lead his fellow club members as the league entered its final weeks.

Betty Bennett continues to prove that practice makes perfect as she led the Early Quads League with a 160 game and 464 series.

How would you like to take an "Hawaiian Holiday" with the members of your bowling league? There have been many inquiries concerning the possibility of starting a Sunday morning mixed league with the prize fund being used to send the entire league to Hawaii early next summer. If there are enough Westlakers interested, we will start a mixed fours league to bowl on Sunday mornings at the same time as the Father and Son League and so arrange the finances so that at the end of the league the members will take off for Hawaii in a chartered plane for a wonderful period of fun in the sun. If you are interested, please contact Rick or Primo so that the necessary arrangements may be made.

Anita Del Campo took home first prize in last Friday's No-Tap Sweeper as she posted a 715 total. Second place went to Marion Frazier with 671 while Del Muskin's 663 won third prize for her. Emily Drage won fourth place, while June Tarczy took top honors for high game out of the money.

September 8 is "D Day" for the junior bowlers of the Daly City area as Primo will take registrations for the coming Junior League season on that day. He promises a wide variety of leagues to meet the needs of all junior bowlers of the area. For further information, Primo may be reached at the Bowl.

Bonnie Birkett defeated Norma Baldelli by only 21 pins to take last week's Ladies' Swiss Singles as June Tarczy took third spot. As the ladies return from vacations, more and more are on hand for this popular Monday afternoon feature.

"Learn to Bowl" will be the theme at Westlake during the coming months as this very worthwhile Brunswick program will be presented three times weekly—Tuesday at 10, Thursdays at 2 and Fridays at 1 p.m. The course will include a tour of the Bowl.

SF State Opens Practice Saturday

It will be away from the chalk boards and on to the gridiron practice turfs for San Francisco State College's coaching staff as they expect to greet an estimated 70 varsity hopefuls on opening day, Saturday, September 1, at 9 a.m. on the San Francisco State College practice field.

Head Coach Vic Rowan, assistant coaches Bob Rodrigo and Tom Morgan, head frosh-JV coach Jim Sochor, and graduate student assistant coaches Allen Abraham, Bob Martin and Ron Sweet will be sending the Gators through an intensive two-a-day practice sessions in preparation for the local's 1962 football opener against the University of California at Santa Barbara on Friday, September 14, in Santa Barbara's LaFlaya Stadium. Kickoff times will be 8:15 p. m.

The Gators, 1961 co-Far Western Conference champions with Humboldt State, are expected to have their hands full in their tough nine game gridiron slate. On tap to give the Gator coaches nightmares will be non-conference toughies such as Santa Barbara, Long Beach State, University of Santa Clara and Cal Poly of Pomona. The conference headaches include Humboldt State, University of Nevada, University of California at Davis, Sacramento State and Chico State.

The S. F. Staters have a strong offensive backfield, including quarterback Dick Valois, all conference and number 12 in passing in the nation last year among the college teams; halfbacks Tom Manney, Mike Jaramillo, both all conference; fullbacks Tom Locicero and Don Briscals, the latter can go both ways with ease.

Offensively up front the Gators look empty with only veteran guards Ed Johnson and James Borelli with playing experience.

Defense finds the Gators with tackle Ted Freeman, linebacker Don Rodrigo, safety John McGregor, wingback Bob Baird as returning veterans.

This means the Gator coaches will be looking for a number of newcomers from the JV units, junior college transfer candidates, and others, to plug up the missing links in the chain.

Up from the JVs will be quarterback Larry Baker, halfback Tim Tierney and tackle Paul Richards, as experienced hopefuls.

San Jose Destruction Derby Attracts Top 'Wreckdrivers'

Early entries for the second annual Auto Destruction Derby at San Jose Speedway on Sunday night, September 2, indicate at least 60 cars will be starting the two-hour "motorized mayhem" program.

Bob Barkhimer, speedway manager, said the NASCAR sanctioned event is scheduled for the night before Labor Day in co-operation with the national "keep off the highway" safety program.

Drivers and cars will compete in teams of four during four action periods, smashing their machines together until just one car is left running. Driver of the last moving car represents the winning team which picks up $700 in prize money. Second place pays $400, third pays $100. Team sponsors get trophies.

Dick West of San Jose, winner of the recent destruction derby at the Alameda County Fair, and Charlie Touchatt of Hayward, last year's San Jose Speedway destruction event winner, are among early entries.

Three entire teams have been entered already by Alta Vista Salvage Company of Hayward, including as drivers: West, Danny Kientitz, Carmel Fernandez, Walt Williams, Jim Wise, Ralph Olivera, Jack Davidson, Bud Owen, Larry Sherman, Dick Gilkey, Gil Prevette and Gene Prevette.

A number of individual entries have been received also, Barkhimer said, and these will be grouped into teams of four in the competition. Entry forms and rules may be secured from Bob Barkhimer, NASCAR office, 2032 North Pacific avenue, Santa Cruz, telephone GA 6-3210.

Midget Auto Races Monday At Alviso Speedway In S. J.

Champions of the hardtop circuits will drive in the midget auto races of the Bay Cities Racing Association next Monday night, Labor Day, at Alviso Speedway, six miles north of San Jose, just off the Milpitas-Sunnyvale highway.

The special holiday program will mark the first appearance of the "mighty midgets" on the quarter-mile dirt track, but many of the drivers entered have piloted hardtops on the oval in past years.

Entries include Rick Henderson of Petaluma, 1959 national and state champion in NASCAR hardtops; Eddie Andrews of San Francisco, 1958 California NASCAR champ; Dean Holden of Palo Alto, former hardtop king at the old Belmont Speedway; George Benson of Mountain View, longtime favorite in hardtop racing, and Jim Lawson of Alameda, formerly a top hardtop driver in the Alviso competition.

BCRA veterans who have chance to try their midgets on the Aviso dirt, which has won a reputation as "the fastest dirt track in the West," will be headed by Chuck Booth of Sacramento, last year's BCRA champion; Mike McGreevy of Oakland, who topped Booth recently at Sacramento for this year's lead, and Bob DeJung of Hayward, who won the San Jose Speedway midget 150-lap feature on May 29.

Others in the BCRA field will include Dee Hileman of Los Altos and Glenn Dennee of Saratoga, both well known in hardtops; Norm Rapp of San Francisco; Tommy Copp of San Bruno; Chuck Lawlor of Belmont; Gene Gurney of Hayward; Joe Leonard of San Jose; Bob Burbridge of San Francisco, and Dickie Deis of Fresno, all well known in the midget circuits.

Jack London, BCRA manager, said 18 cars will start the 30-lap main event as a climax of the Alviso program. There will be a trophy dash for the four fastest qualifiers, heat races and semi-main events.

Management of Alviso Speedway scheduled the midgets at request of many fans but held the admission price to the area standard of $1.75 for adults. Time trials will begin about 7 p.m. Ample parking area is available but fans are warned to come early for the best seats.

There's an old adage that the umpires are always right.

But I'm afraid they did something they had no right to do in a recent game between the Cleveland Indians and the Baltimore Orioles.

Umpires ordered Cleveland pitcher Pedro Ramos to get rid of his batting helmet, which he was wearing on the mound. Ramos obliged, yet there is nothing in the rules that says a pitcher — or any other player — can't wear a batting helmet on the field.

It all came about when the Orioles and the umpiring team suspected that Ramos was putting a "foreign substance" on the ball. The umps figured he was getting his "juice" from either his uniform or cap. So Ramos nearly made a complete change in apparel during the middle innings.

Ramos was ordered, first, to discard his original baseball cap. He did this, then returned to the mound with a batting helmet. So the umpires lowered the boom on the Cuban.

But, if Ramos wanted to, he could have insisted on using that helmet.

And come to think of it, it wouldn't be a bad idea for pitchers to wear batting helmets for protection. The pitcher is a sitting duck for power drives hit by potential killers.

If one of these strong boys ever connect and hits the pitcher in the right area of the head, they'll be calling the pitcher's hill "boot hill."

A year long squabble has resulted, or I should say erupted, about the playing conditions on the Candlestick and Dodger Stadium diamonds.

Candlestick is charged with being too soft when the swift Dodgers are in town. And the Giants charge that Chavez Ravine is too hard.

There's no doubt about it. A hard diamond helps a fast team steal bases. Soft runways slow 'em down.

But there is nothing new about "doctoring up" diamonds. The Cincinnati Redlegs' pennant-winning team of 1940 had some great bunters. So the Rhinelanders adjusted the foul lines so they protruded high enough to keep the bunts in fair territory.

There have also been times when the home team has "altered" the batter's box, by chalking the lines just a fraction off kilter. Hitters who pick their spots in the batting box would have their timing thrown off.

Then there was the case of fleet-footed University of Southern California playing the University of California at Berkeley in 1948. The highly favored Trojans lost the game, 1-0, on a muddy field.

So what's so unusual about that?

The Bay area, at that time, was enjoying a week-long hot spell.

What ever happened to the 45 rpm record "Lovey Dovey McCovey"? . . . Lovey Dovey hits a ball harder than any man in baseball. There may be fellas like LA's Frank Howard, who can hit a ball as far as Lovel. But nobody hits it harder! . . . Two ex-Giant pinch-hitters are doing right well with other clubs. Jim Marshall, now of the Pirates, and Dale Long of the Yanks are producing at least one RBI every other hit. . . . Don Mossi, 10 year major league veteran (now with Detroit, failed to make the All-Peninsula League high school all-star team when he was attending Jefferson High School in Daly City. . . . Mossi was married at home plate in a ceremony held back in 1952 when he was playing with the old Bakersfield Indians. . . . Jeff Carter, the man who sings the National Anthem and also operates the PA system at Candlestick Park, was a bit actor in Hollywood and once sang in New York musicals.

Dick LeMay and Gaylord Perry, on-again, off-again Giant pitchers, are both having great success with Tacoma in the Pacific Coast League. . . . Which also brings to mind that Elmer Singleon, the popular Seal of bygone years, is still winnin' a few, losin' a few with Seattle. . . . Lefty Grove, all-time great pitcher, used to cut his sweatshirt sleeve to shreds on his pitching arm to distract the hitters. . . . Lefty Gomez, self-admittedly was the world's worst hitter. The former Yankee pitching star says everytime he would come to bat the players in the rival dugouts used to shout: "Come on, Lefty. Cross 'em up. Hit a foul." . . . No sportscaster in history ever satisfied everybody. But one thing can't be denied. Russ Hodges does the grandest "selling job" for Giant baseball on radio. Russ doesn't "expert the game." He generally concentrates on cultivating the new fans, and the Giant family loves him for it. . . . I was glad to see that Alvin Dark finally fined Orlando Cepeda for not hustling on August 19. The only thing is: It was about two months too late.

Daly City Gr'd Prospects at S. M. College

Approximately 60 prospective College of San Mateo football players are expected at Coyote Point tomorrow, Thursday, August 30, when coaches Doug Scovil and Cliff Giffin will issue equipment to the 1962 Bulldog squad.

Among the backfield stars expected Thursday are Jefferson halfback Sam Ennon, Westmoor quarterback Steve Funal, and fullback Frank Downs from San Mateo, who is slated for end duties.

Regular practice begins Saturday with two-a-day sessions scheduled throughout the Labor Day weekend on the practice field at Coyote Point. Beginning with the opening of school on September 4, regular single afternoon sessions will be held.

Scovil and Giffin have but two weeks to prepare their charges for the school's opener at traditional rival Stockton on September 15.

Line coach Giffin must begin practically from scratch. End Larry Schilbe is the only starting lineman back from the 1961 Bulldog squad which was ranked fourth in the United States. First team All-American tackle Larry Hansen and all-conference guard Joe Butcher both completed their eligibility last year.

But with Schilbe and the other two returning starters—quarterback Rich Norman and halfback Clarence Hamel—Scovil has a nucleus around which to build his 1962 atack.

Notrman was voted the most improved player in 1961. Hemel received honorable mention All-American status along with Butcher and was named co-winner of the CSM President's Trophy along with Jim Cheatham. Four other lettermen of 1961 return.

Newcomers include Serra backfield flash Steve Firenze and Padre lineman Tom Nolan.

Some of the top Peninsula League guards and tackles of 1961 will also join the San Mateo squad, including Frank Kagarakis of South San Francisco, Sam Moore and Barry Bierman of Hillsdale, Bob McElhany of Burlingame, and Capuchino's Walt Wenger.

Family season tickets admitting the entire family to all five home games are on sale for $2.50 from Athletic News Service at the college. Checks should be made payable to the Associated Students of San Mateo College.

Parents Urged To Check Child's Bicycle Habits

"Nothing protects a child on a bicycle but his training and common sense," Dr. Albert H. Domm warned local parents this week.

Dr. Domm, leading child safety spokesman and medical director for the Prudencial Insurance Company in the western United States, urged parents to check their youngsters' bicycling habits before school starts in September.

"If you're driving a car, a bumper tap or dented fender is annoying. If you're riding a bicycle, it may mean death or serious injury. A bicyclist has no bumpers to protect him, no roof over his head, no fenders to absorb shock, no great weight to stabilize him and only two wheels to balance on," he pointed out.

Before a youngster even gets on a bicycle, check all equipment — brakes, tires, wheels, chain, pedals, frame, handle bars and seat — to see that everything is correctly adjusted and in good condition, he said. If any night riding is done, the equipment should include headlight and rear reflector. A horn or warning bell judiciously used, may be valuable, he added.

"Every bicyclist, like his parents, must drive carefully, obey local traffic laws and heed all signs."

Urging that youngsters always pay strict attention to traffic, roads and bicycle operation and conditions, the child safety spokesman suggested the following rules:

- Use arm signals when turning or stopping.
- Keep to the right and close to the curb, with traffic and not facing it.
- Slow down at corners and driveways, look for cars and be ready to stop. Beware of parked cars which might pull out and be prepared for opening doors.
- Ride single file. Never carry riders.
- Dismount and walk across busy streets at crosswalks. If traffic is heavy, walk the bicycle off the street.
- Don't hitch on to moving vehicles.
- Use both hands. Do not carry packages in your arms.
- Don't ride on sidewalks or in crosswalks.
- Use lights at night. Wear light or white clothes.
- Stop and look before entering a street from a driveway or alley.

Large Crowd Attends SSF Carnival Day

A crowd estimated at near 1200 children and 250 adults attended the South San Francisco Recreation and Parks Department's annual Carnival and Fun Day at Orange Memorial Park Friday.

Magnolia Hi-Teen Club's spectacular booth attractions drew hundreds of participants, as did the sacket skill games, greased pole climb, and bingo. Headed by the South San Francisco PAL Drum Corps, the morning's fun filled activities were kicked off by a colorful costume parade.

Following the break for a much needed lunch, the crowd was treated to a variety of entertainment featuring dancing, songs and acrobatics. Entertainment was coordinated by Mrs. George Tischbern, Director of Dramatic Arts for the Recreation Department and featured Blum's School of Dance, as well as acts from Sunshine Gardens and Siebecker Centers. The "Tennessee Wig-Walk" dance performed by Sunshine Gardens and some volunteer recreation directors provided the comic highlight of the day.

Girl and boy races and relays and cartoon movies provided the fun for the afternoon program along with teenage softball and volleyball games. Final events of the gala program were the watermelon eating contests, climaxed by the directors watermelon eating contest, the day's surprise event.

Nearly 5,000 prizes were distributed to the many participants.

Winners of the costume parade were: Most beautiful, Margaret Duggar; most handsome, Mark Lando; most unusual, Shelle Romeo and Mark Fee; and most amusing, Susan Silvas and Kevin Keene. Steve Crittenden and Frank Folmar were the only participants able to make it to the top in the greased pole climb.

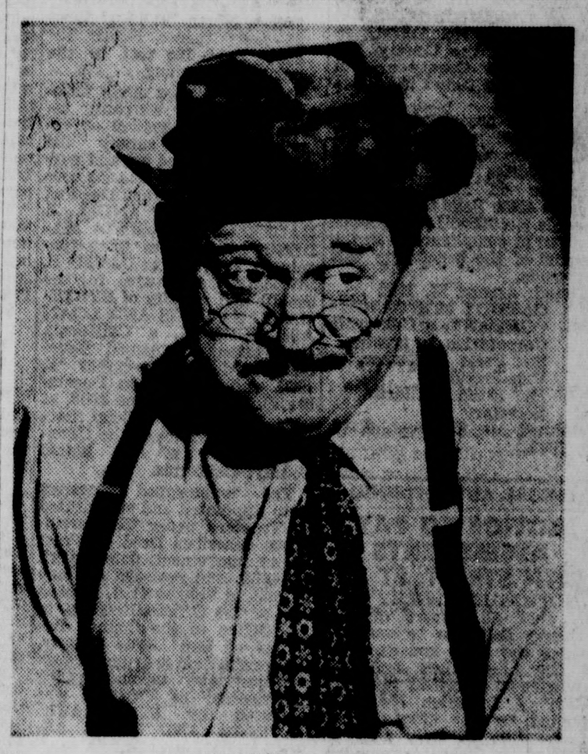
TV and RADIO

By Mona Baker

"Oh, look, there goes the little old winemaker," said a woman as she saw Charley Weaver go past in an electric car on the way to the stage where he was appearing at the Seattle World's Fair. However, Charley is not usually taken for the little winemaker; he is too well-known and beloved as the delightful television character from "Mount Idy." Youngsters of all ages adore him and climb confidently up on his lap whenever he makes personal appearances.

In town this week to host the "Tennessee Ernie Ford Show" (weekdays, 11 a. m., ABC, KGO-TV), he met the press after the telecast and had the min stitches with him ad libbing. In fact, all during the show he keeps not only the studio audience, but the cast, orchestra members and camera crews laughing continuously. In his baggy pants, pancake hat and "specks" on the tip of his nose, he makes people laugh just to look at him. But it is an affectionate type of laugh and to everyone he is a very warm and real person reminding them very much of somebody's grandfather.

His acting experience goes back to the early days of radio where as Cliff Arquette, the actor, he appeared on such popular favorites as the "Mert and Marge Show" and as "The Old Timer" for the Fibber McGee and Molly Show and Red Skelton.



(An interesting little local sidelight on our meeting with Charley: Before the interview, in talking to Willard E. Wagner, treasurer of the Westlake Senior Citizens group, he said he knew Arquette many years ago up in Antioch, where Wagner owned a theater. Arquette played in vaudeville there. We talked to Charley about the incident and he said he remembered very well, but that "was a long time ago — almost 30 years.")

When television came along, Charley said he decided to develop a character that he "could grow into" and, he continued, now when he looks in the mirror "it frightens him to realize how rapidly he is growing into it."

He has appeared more than 400 times on the Jack Parr Show and, beginning this fall, will be a regular on the new Roy Rogers-Dale Evans Show, which will premiere over ABC for a full hour every Saturday night, beginning September 29.

Having interviewed Dale and Roy before and now Charley, we feel this is a combination that can't miss and predict the show will be one of the hits of the coming season.

In addition to his acting career, Charley has written "Letters from Mama," which was a best seller, and "Things Are Fine in Mount Idy," which was also a big hit.

Destruction Derby Sept. 2 In San Jose

Sixty old automobiles will be smashed together deliberately—for fun and for money — until just one is left running in the second annual San Jose Speedway Destruction Derby, Sunday night, September 2.

Drivers will compete in teams of four for $1,200 total prize money plus trophies for winners. Action will begin at 8 p.m. and admission price has been set at $2 for adults.

Action will be split into four periods of 15 minutes each with intermissions between these periods so drivers can make repairs to their cars. The last period continues until just one car remains moving.

Special NASCAR referees are being assigned to the event to watch for any drivers staying in the background, not making constant contact with other machines. All drivers must agree to abide by decisions of the referees, who compare notes before announcing winning teams.

This year a special trophy award will be given for the best looking team of four cars entered. Judging and award will take place prior to the destruction action. Many different and novel paint jobs are expected.

Prize money is to be divided $700 for the winning team of four, $400 for second place, and $100 for third place. Each driver of each of the three winning teams will get a trophy. Driver of last car running represents the winning team.

Safety rules for the destruction derby require all glass be removed from cars, doors tied shut, and each driver to wear a crash helmet and a safety belt.

While drivers compete in teams of four, individual entries are accepted and the individuals will be grouped into teams by officials.

DC Man Drowns In Russian River

A Daly City TV repairman drowned in the Russian River near Guerneville last Saturday when he stepped into a deep hole while wading.

Friends said that Gus A. Siacotos, 24, Ridgefield street, Daly City, was in neck-high water at Dryers Beach when he said, "It's getting too deep in here." A few seconds later he stepped into a nine-foot hole and drowned.

Sheriff's skindivers recovered the body an hour later. It was the second drowning at Dryers Beach this summer and the seventh in the Russian River.

Coins Stolen

About $200 in coins were stolen August 24 from the Charles Luke residence, 56 Rockford. Also stolen were a $100 camera and $25 from a piggy bank, police reported.

Married Life Still Aflame

Daly City firemen were getting grey hair last weekend over marital difficulties of two Daly City couples.

On a late evening call, they rushed equipment over, only to find the wife had set fire to a tissue box in the bathtub.

In another husband and wife spat that ended in a fire call, they rushed over, only to find one of the sparring partners—either the husband or wife—had drenched down a hallway with gasoline.

No fire broke out in either case, but as batallion chief Hansen put it, "This kind of 'patti-cake' can be dangerous."

Father-Son Team For Salton Sea 500 Boat Race

Some drivers will go to any length, or distance, to pursue their boat racing hobby.

Take the father and son act of the Richard Stephans, senior and junior. These Fort Lauderdale, Fla., drivers were the first out-of-state entrants for the second annual Salton City 500-Mile Boat Race, Nov. 9-11.

Of course, there's some incentive. First place overall is worth $5,000 from the total purse of $15,000.

Dick Stephan, Jr., won the 250-mile Gold Coast Marathon in Miami in July. His father, the hair tonic tycoon, raced boats in Massachusetts before moving into the Florida race scene.

By the time the Stephans get back home from California, their boat, Gallopin' Dandruff II, will have been trailered some 6,000 miles.

Younger Protests Duck Bag Cutback

Representative J. Arthur Younger has protested a possible cut in daily bag limits for California duck hunters.

Younger announced he wrote Daniel Janzen, director of the federal bureau of sport fisheries and wildlife, to say he fears repetition of past decisions where Pacific flyway hunters are penalized for a low duck count caused by drought in the Mississippi flyway.

Statistics show an overall increase in the Pacific flyway duck population since 1956, Younger asserted. "This improved situation should not be confused with the drop in number of water fowl shown in the Mississippi flyway for 1958, 1959, and 1960," he said.

"Breeding conditions have been excellent along the Pacific flyway," Younger added. "Furthermore, the kill during recent seasons has been less than half that in the Mississippi flyway.

"Any limitations should be against Midwest hunters and not those in the Far West."

'Writing To Sell' Is New CSM Night Course

Writing to sell is the objective of the two classes in magazine writing offered by the evening college of the College of San Mateo in the San Mateo public library this fall. First meetings and registration are scheduled for 9 a. m., September 11 and 12.

During the past year members of these classes have made sales to Peninsula Living, Family Circle, Child Life, Humpty-Dumpty, Together, Catholic Digest and Woman's Day. One short story developed in class workshop sessions was reprinted in an English magazine and in an anthology for high school students.

Instructor for the classes is Mrs. W. F. Bogges, Jr., who holds an M.A. degree from the University of Texas and who has completed graduate study in professional writing under the late Walter Campbell and Foster-Harris at the University of Oklahoma. Her writing experience includes newspaper, publicity, trade journals, and free-lance articles and short stories.

Course instruction includes lectures on the techniques in writing fiction and non-fiction and a workshop where student manuscripts are analyzed and revised. Current magazines are studied for slant.

The classes, offered for the seventh year, are co-sponsored by the professional writing section of the San Mateo branch of the American Association of University Women.

Alcoholism Should Be Treated As Illness

Not everyone who drinks heavily is destined to become an alcoholic, but approximately one drinker in ten does develope this chronic disease. When he does, he should be understood and accepted by his family, his friends, and himself—not as an excessively self-indulgent person but as someone suffering from an illness.

The patient with alcoholism is not able to control his drinking nor his abnormal reaction to alcohol. There is no such thing as treating an alcoholic so that he can tolerate alcohol. Successful treatment is aimed at total abstinence from any beverage containing any alcohol and this must be consistent with an understanding of his personality inadequacies.

Why do some people cross the borderline between a social drinker and an alcoholic? As far as we know, it is a combination of a number of factors. Emotional stress may precipitate it in some persons. Some families manifest a tendency toward alcoholism, as do certain national groups. Alcoholism tends to run high in certain occupational groups who have regular and prolonged exposure to alcohol.

The person who develops alcoholism suffers far-reaching physical and emotional damage. Among the severe and often fatal consequences are cirrhosis of the liver, gastritis, ulcers, hemorrhage from the stomach, inflammation of the pancreas, deterioration of the peripheral nerves, and deterioration of the brain. Alcholics are frequently victims of accident and injury, and are a hazard to themselves and to others as drivers and pedestrians. Perhaps the most common physical damage from alcoholism is the "hangover" — the complications of which may be so severe that the alcoholic prefers to drink rather than risk the delirium tremens, withdrawal convulsions, remorse, depression, etc.

The brain deterioration which is often the result of prolonged alcoholism leads to grave personality changes. In addition, the typical alcoholic suffers excessive guilt because of the dislocations which his drinking has caused in his personal and work life, and elaborate habits of concealing his illness from himself and from others. This built-in deception is one of the most serious aspects of treating the disease. Not uncommonly the patient with alcoholism does not admit that he is ill and seek help. More often, he will circumvent the problem by avoiding his usual associates whose disapproval the dreads, and develop a new set of drinking friends encountered at the cocktail party, the neighborhood bar, or the fluid business lunch.

The problems of treating the alcoholic are complicated but not hopeless. They include the difficulty in getting patients to ask for and accept treatment, the fact that most physicians receive very little formal training in treating this disease, and the policy of many hospitals against admitting alocholics. However, special clinics and treatment centers have been developed in response to increasing awareness of the physical and social costs of the disease.

The initial steps in treatment are directed toward helping the patient give up alcohol without suffering from withdrawal symptons. This is accomplished with the aid of drugs, and sometimes requires hospitalization. The physician tries to restore the ravages of malnutrition, repair other physical damage which may have occurred to vital organs, and prevent serious complications. Once the patient has brought to the point at which he can bear abstinence, physically, he undergoes prolonged treatment to enable him to endure it emotionally. This treatment includes counseling and psychotherapy, which usually involves adjustment of his living pattern and help with his family relationships.

Information about treatment centers for alcoholism can be obtained from the offices of your local County Medical Society, the local Alcoholism Information Center of the Council on Alcoholism, Alcoholics Anonymous, the public health and welfare agencies in your community, and your personal physician.

Questions concerning this subject should be directed to your personal physician or to "Health Tips," California Medical Association, 693 Sutter Street, San Francisco 2.

SF Chamber of Commerce Proposes Freeway Work

Recommendations for adoption of proposed freeway projects in San Francisco were made to the State Highway Commission at Sacramento by the city of San Francisco and the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce on Wednesday, August 22.

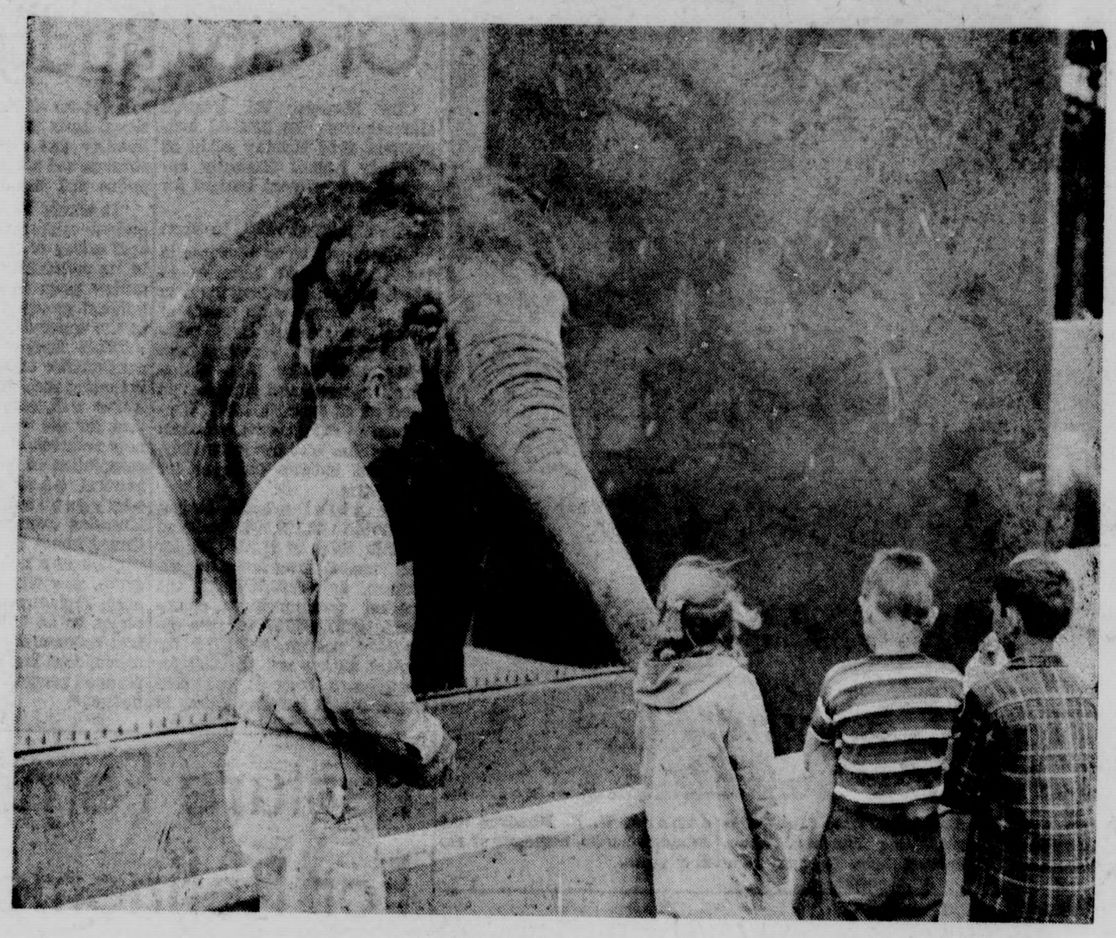
Architect Leonard S. Mosias, chairman of the street, highway and bridge section of the Chamber of Commerce, presented the chamber's argument that the plans be adopted by the commission.

Mosias appeared before the commission with Reuben Owens, director of the department of public work, and G. L. Fox, executive vice president of the chamber.

City projects for which the chamber and the city recommended adoption were continuation of the Southern Freeway project from Orizaba avenue to the county line, $1.2 million; landscaping of 1.1 miles of the Southern Freeway, $110,000; 3.4 miles extension of Southern Freeway, $45 million, and a revision of signing on the James Lick Memorial Freeway from the county line on he Peninsula to the Bay Bridge, $250,000.

The budgeted projects totaled $46,560,000. The chamber and the city also recommended "suitable improvements" of the Embarcadero Freeway area fronting the Ferry building.

Kids View Elephants At San Francisco Zoo



Feeding peanuts to the elephants is always fun. The elephants seem to enjoy it, too.

Two busloads of Daly City youngsters were guests of the Daly City recreation department last week during an all-day tour of San Francisco zoo.

Highlight of the day, as far as the kids were concerned was a close-up view of "Pennie," a 300-pound baby elephant, and feeding of the grown-up pachyderms.

Storyland, with Alice in Wonderland charm, was the No. 1 spot on the agenda. This Disneyland in miniature is directed by John Nihill.

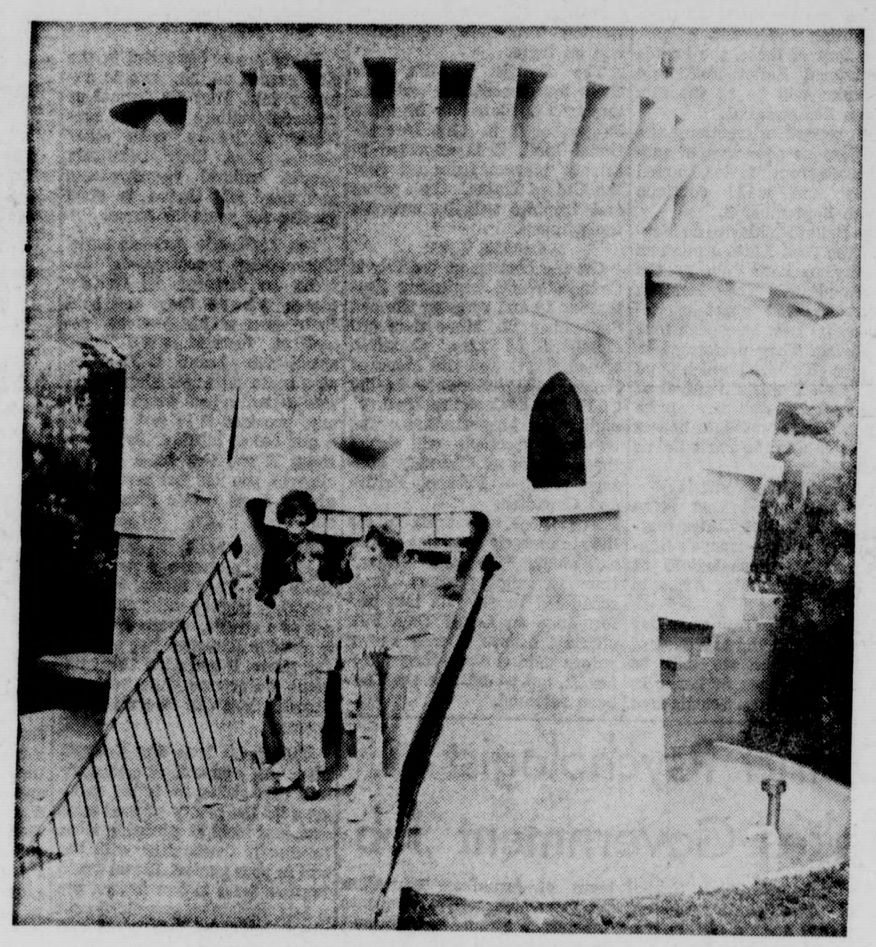
Acting head-keeper John Mansen led the youngsters to a pair of Mexican burros, which the girls thought were cute, but dirty.

Children from a group led by Olympia school athletic director Patti Sinclair, volunteered for pictures with the baby elephant and zoo keeper Carl Candine.

Also assisting on the recreation side were Bob Blevins, who will take over this fall as Oceana High School athletic director, and Bob Brown, physical education instructor at Pelton Junior High, San Francisco.

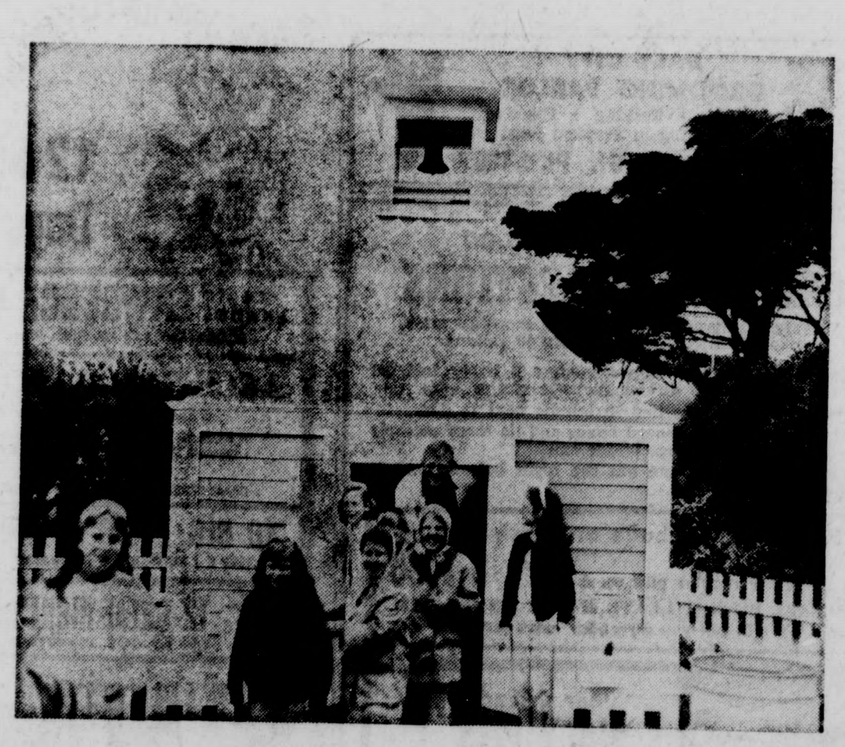
According to the San Francisco Zoological Society, the baby Indian elephant arrived at San Francisco zoo late in May after a Pan-American jet flight half way around the world, direct from Calcutta.

This is the smallest elephant ever acquired by the zoo. Pennie was 58 inches high when she arrived, and her trip is an historic event since elephants rarely fly because of size and weight.



Recreation Director Patti Adams leads children through entrance of Storyland in San Francisco Zoo.

Children crowd around baby elephant at San Francisco Zoo.



Recreation Leader Jeff Stahl played teacher, then adjourned classes at little red school house at Storyland.

Boys and girls cornered a pair of frisky Mexican donkeys at San Francisco Zoo. The girls liked them but thought they were dirty.

Old Barbary Coast To Come To Life

The wild doings and eccentric characters of the Old Barbary Coast will come to life again on Saturday and Sunday, September 1 and 2, as San Franciscans turn back the clock to celebrate the Barbary Coast Fandango.

Festivities will run for two solid days, providing continuous entertainment between 1 p. m. and 2 a. m. each day.

Revelers will dance in the streets to the music of live jazz, compete for cash prizes in old-time contests, and generally relive San Francisco's most infamous era.

The Fandango is a fund raising benefit on behalf of the California Historical Society. The society was founded in 1852, and is dedicated to the collection, preservation and distribution of information relating to California's history.

The old Barbary Coast area along Pacific street will be barricaded and once inside revelers can join in the fun. Among the attractions will be a Wells Fargo Concord stagecoach, complete with a team of four horses, driver, out rider, and shotgun messenger which visitors can ride. According to the Wells Fargo Bank officials, who donated the vehicle to the Fandango at no charge, this same stagecoach was actually held-up 13 times by Black Bart, the notorious outlaw of the Mother Lode.

Fast-draw gunslingers will shoot it out on Jackson street for "top gun" of the Barbary Coast Fandango. Prospective miners can pan for real gold with old-timers from California's gold country.

Men and women are invited to compete for cash prizes in old-time games and contests. The persistent man who scales an 18-foot greased pole will nab $50 in greenbacks tacked to the top. (Coveralls are provided, but contestants are cautioned to wear old clothes.) Once the bills are gone, they will be replaced by more greenbacks.

A top prize of $100 will go to the Fandango's best mucker. Mucking — a gold mining term — consists of filling a one-cubic yard capacity ore car with mining ore. In the contest, the man who fills the ore car in the fastest time wins.

Ladies and gentlemen appearing in the best costumes from three periods — 49'ers, Gay Nineties, and Roaring Twenties — will also win handsome awards.

The lucky lady who finds the needle-in-the-haystack will win a free Necchi-Elna sewing machine from the San Francisco Sewing Machine Center, 1651 Polk street.

Oofty, Goofty, Butt Reilly, Little Egypt, Norton I, emperor of the United States and Protector of Mexico, plus other odd-ball characters out of the Barbary Coast's past will entertain the roving crowds.

Continuous entertainment will feature barber shop singing, community singing, jumping frogs from Calaveras, an Old Chinatown revue, a 50-piece banjo band, and square dancers. Ray Hackett and his orchestra will provide dance music between 9 and 1 o'clock on each night.

Donations are $3 per adult and children under 12, $1. All proceeds go to the California Historical Society.

KING NORMAN'S Toys was opened last week officially with a Crown Cutting. Participating in the ceremonies are: John Doelger, vice president of Henry Doelger Builder, Inc., Frank Pacelli, Daly City Councilman, King Norman, Linda Rosenberg, Mrs. Norman Rosenberg, U. R. Kendree and Amador Garcia, manager of the new store.

Final Approval Of City Budget

City Manager Ed Frank's statement on the 1962-63 budget was read Monday night as the city council formally approved the balanced budget for the 1962-63 year.

The statement read, in part:

"There will be no increase in the tax rate. It remains at $1.48, the same as last year, in spite of increases in costs of operation, salaries, and additional personnel. This has been made possible by the anticipated revenue and surplus on hand as of June 30, 1962. Conditions of our general economy during the ensuing year may, however, indicate changes for the future.

The total overall budget amounts to $3,189,396. Included in this total is $1,916,932 for the general governmental operation, or $1,393,157 for the general governmental operations, or $1,393,157 for the operations portion, $473,755 for capital outlay and $50,000 for unbudgeted reserve and contingencies. It includes raises in salaries for all employees, additional costs for fringe benefits, liability and compensation insurance and added personnel for police and fire departments.

"It should be noted that the budget conforms with the general policy of "pay as you go" in its reflections on the capital outlay program both for the general government as well as in the water department."

"This budget indicates the continuance of the program by including such improvements as a new well, remote control system for the water department, new reservoir to be started, the completion of Westmoor Park, general park improvements, playground installations, Knowles avenue project, continued street improvements, initiation of a new city hall program, new city vehicle storage area, replacement of police vehicles on an annual basis, central communications center, and others that are indicated in the planned program in the 1962-63 budget."

Privet Is The Most Practical Hedge Plant

For practical purposes, it's hard to find a better shrub for hedging than privet. It grows fast enough to start clipping within a year, can be kept low and formal or let to grow tall and informal. When properly cared for, it has that neat, clean look which only a boxwood can equal or surpass.

Privet is usually the image of formality and most gardeners picture it only as a clipped row of green or possibly sheared to some unnatural shape by one who fancies the art of topiary. We are assured by the California Association of Nurserymen, howover, that privets are often used as informal tall screens and even as specimen shrubs that are permitted to grow into small tree size and shape.

It is as a clipped hedge that we find the greatest use for the varied members of the privet family. And it will serve as well to review not only the varieties available but also the best method of training them to the hedge shape. This latter is more important than you might think.

Commonest mistake made by most gardeners who would have the perfect privet hedge is in the clipping. The natural tendenoy here is to shear from the top down, a practice which usually results in the hedge's having more foliage at its top than at its base. Looking down the length of the hedge, one finds that the top is broader than the bottom.

This is all wrong, since it does not admit light to lower areas and the eventual result is skimpier and skimpier growth at the base of the helge until it is on the thin side or even defoliated. Proper shearing consists of creating a slightly pyramidal form so that as much light hits the lower leaves as hits the upper. This permits an even density of foliage throughout the hedge.

The other mistake made by gardeners lies in thinking that privet hedges are self sustaining when it comes to water. Privet will grow through a summer of drought, but the growth is less than luxuriant and the shrub is weakened by thirst, more subject than it should be to attack from whiteflies and other pests.

When privet is planted in a hedge down the property line or in some other out of the way place, be sure it gets watered. One good way is to lay a soaker down the length of the hedge at its base.

For many gardeners who visit nurseries, it comes as a surprise to find so many different varieties of privet available. There are half a dozen commonly found and others that turn up occasionally.

Most easily recognized by nursery visitors is the California privet, a fast-growing plant that makes up a majority of the privet hedges in our state. When you plant it, set the plants about a foot apart and cut back the tops to within a foot or so of the ground to encourage good growth at the ful hedge plant, is a variety of the California Privet.

The Wax-Leaf or Texas Privet is an excellent shrub for medium tall hedges and screens. The leaves are larger than and shiny enough to have been waxed. A variegated form, margined with golden yellow is also available and very popular.

Wax-Leaf Privet lends itself to training and shearing into myriad shapes. When you see the globe and pyramid forms and the empaliered specimens which nureserymen offer, you might well change your mind about planting it only in a hedge.

The Japanese Privet is probably best of the lot for tall screen plantings, either formal or informal. It has three-inch, dark-green leaves and an up- In fact, more and more nurserymen have been offering the Japanese Privet as a tree. It is ideal in a patio and in other small places when grown this way.

As a tree, or when left to grow informally into a tall hedge or screen, privets produce a froth of white summer bloom. These are not spectacular, but they are certainly not unpleasant to have around. You lose them, of course, when you shear your hedge, but that is the price you pay for formality.

King Norman Opening Termed Huge Success

King Norman of the new King Norman Toy Store in the Westlake shopping center termed last week's grand opening as "fantastic."

His enthusiasm was backed up by Westlake shopping center officials, who said that it was "the largest grand opening in the history of the shopping center."

Children and parents from all parts of the Peninsula and Marin county, plus Daly City and San Francisco, atended the grand opening.

The store issued more than 5,000 free tickets for the grand drawing, which will be held September 20, 21 and 22, at which time more than $2,000 in prizes will be given away. Top prize will be a $400 Gilbert electric train lay-out.

The store also gave away 2,000 King Norman crowns to the youngsters, 1,000 flower pots to the mothers, and another 1,000 toy pins to youngsters accompanied by parents.

The new King Norman store is located at 333 South Mayfair avenue, Daly City.

Poll Shows People Favor Shelter Plans

American people favor by an overwhelming margin a program to provide increased fallout protection in this country, a poll just completed by Elmo Roper Associates showed. The survey was developed by Michigan State University.

"An overwhelming 86 per cent of those polled thought the government should bring into use shelter space in existing buildings by stocking and equipping them for occupancy of up to two weeks," said Steuart Pittman, assistant secretary of defense for CD.

The survey disclosed 68 per cent of those polled favored a program for including fallout shelter space in the design of new, larger buildings; 77 per cent favored a federal shelter incentive program to help schools, colleges and hospitals.

S. F. Fallout Shelter Survey Progresses

The second phase of the National Fallout Survey, Marking and Stocking Program is progressing with gratifying results, according to Admiral A. G. Cook, USN (Ret.), San Francisco CD director.

Admiral Cook asserted that approximately 2,249 city buildings and other types of shelter have been surveyed. We should have precise information on the shelter capabilities of these buildings next month.

He estimates about 311 owners have signed forms permitting the use of their buildings as shelters, with space available for stocking of water, food, medical supplies and other equipment. Only three owners have refused to sign a fallout shelter license.

"The success of this program is as vital to the security of our country as the development of additional weapons," the Admiral declared. "It is most important that publicly-owned facilities set an example for private owners who are being asked to sign similar permits. Having all available shelters marked and stocked with food could be the means of saving thousands of lives in San Francisco.

Mexico Week Begins At Seattle World Fair

Mexico Week began at the Seattle World's Fair on Monday and two top attractions are highlighting the event.

The first of these, the broadly-acclaimed Ballet Folklorcio de Mexico will be at the fair through September 1.

The second attraction, the world-famous squadron of motorcyclists from Mexico, started Monday and will continue through September 3.

The Ballet Folklorico de Mexico is the first Latin American company to be seen at the World's Fair. The Mexican dancers created great excitement on its first European tour last spring. They performed in Brussels, Turin, Munich and Paris. At the Paris Festival of Nations, they won first prize and played to sold-out houses for a month at the Paris Palais de Chaillot.

Two Million Tourists

It is estimated that some two million United States tourists have seen the troupe's Sunday morning presentations at the Palace of Belles Artes in Mexico City.

September 1 is Tennessee Day at the fair and the standard of the Volunteer State will be hoisted to a place of honor in the Plaza of States. Seattle area Boy Scouts will raise the flags of the 50 states in a colorful ceremony and a delegation of visiting Tennessee dignitaries will be there.

The Seattle World's Fair chess tournament will end September 31. Slated to begin on September 1 in the International Mall, it is expected to attract players from all over the United States. Cash prizes and trophies will be awarded top winners.

Canada Week

On the horizon at the fair is Canada Week, beginning September 10 and running through September 15. More than 650 members of the Canadian armed forces and the Mounted Police will participate in the colorful "Canadian Tattoo" nightly in the stadium. The two-hour spectacle will depict three stages of Canada's military past — French, British and Canadian.

For those who wish to see the immensely popular water ski show, "It's the Water," time is running short. It is scheduled to give its last performance on Labor Day. Fair officiais believe it may return before fair closing time October 21, but no definite word has been released.

District Psychologist Takes Government Job

The Jefferson High School district board of trustees regretfully accepted the resignation Monday night of the district psychologist, Dr. Kenneth Blood.

Blood, who was recently appointed to the newly-created post of district director of guidance, has been selected by the United States government to serve in installing an educational system in Liberia.

Blood will serve two years in Monrovia, Liberia, with a team of American education people which will attempt to develop a system which will serve as a model for national educational development.

The youthful psychologist will head the complete counseling and guidance system for the entire country of Liberia.

"Professionally, this is an apportunity that he could not afford to pass," said district superintendent Ed Morgan in regretfully recommending that his resignation be accepted.

Feature Ferns For Refinement

There is a wild and woodsy quality to ferns. They are the picture of refinement and delicacy, yet for all this, they smack of the ruggedness of a granite lined stream or the backwoods beauty of a shaded glen. Grow them in your garden and they import something of this feeling.

Ferns are as beautiful in the city garden as they are in nature's wild. They fit formal or informal settings and are perfectly at home with other plants. Meet their relatively simple cultural requirements and they will thrive in your garden for years to come.

The California Association of Nurserymen recommends that ferns be featured in shady places where they can hold their own with azaleas, camellias, fuchsias and other shade-loving beauties. They are also beautiful when planted beside a garden pool or in a rockery, provided it is not part of a sun-baked hillside. And even then, if you live in a coastal climate, you will get away with giving ferns a fair amount of sun.

Ferns are not bog plants, yet they like moisture aplenty at their feet. They like the drainage they might get at the margin of a stream, where moisture is readily available yet ever on the move. If you give them the same water care that you give azaleas, you can hardly go wrong.

This holds true for the soil, also. An acid soil is necessary and care should be taken to insure it. Use plenty of peat moss and leaf mold at planting time, mixing it thoroughly with the soil in your garden. If you would feature ferns in containers, use a mix containing one-third peat moss, one-third leaf mold and one-third garden loam.

There are many ferns to be found in nurseries of the California Association of Nurserymen. They range upward from such delicate little pot plants as the Maidenhair Fern to the towering height of an Australian Tree Fern. They are for the gardener to start with since it is among the easiest to grow and one of the showiest to be found. A deciduous fern, it is bare of fronds for a few short weeks in winter, but it comes back with renewed vigor after a brief rest. Its broad, lacelike fronds are nearly four feet high on mature plants, providing a fine background for azaleas, Japanese iris or daphne. They form an interesting pattern when grown against a fence.

The tree ferns are favorites with gardeners and justifiably so, for few plants have such graceful habits. True show-offs, these giant ferns are best used as single specimens in the entrance garden, or in a large tub on the terrace. Two are generally available. Australian Tree Fern is the largest. Mature plants of this species are to be found 14 or 15 feet high, but they didn't attain that height overnight. Be patient. The other Tree Fern is the New Zealand Tree Fern, and if either is to go into a tub, make it this one.

There are several Asparagus ferns which the gardener would do well to check in his nursery. One of the most popular is the hanging basket fern which tumbles down in a fine mass of delicate foliage. These are not true ferns, but who's to argue. Indoorsmen will want to try Maidenhair Fern, Birds Nest Fern and Holly Fern, a glossy little number that goes perfectly in the house. Maidenhair Fern scarcely needs description for it is a standard item in corsages. The Birds Nest Fern is a graceful, stiff-stemmed little fern with wavy margins on its broad-bladed fronds. The Holly Fern is an oddity among ferns, glossy of leaf and spiny enough in looks to remind one of holly itself.

To pot these indoor ferns, add equal parts of peat moss, leaf mold and garden loam, then toss in a handful of sand for good measure. Water them frequently but don't overdo it. The soil on the surface should be on the dry side before you water the plant again.
